SPEAKER SAFE AT HOME.

In the first inning one of the runs the Red Sox scored was brought over by Tris Speaker. He scored from second on Gessler's single to center field. Birmingham made a fairly good throw to the plate, but young Easterly didn't get his mitts on the pill and the base runners got an extra base each.

TROOPS RUSHED TO DEFEND BOSTON

Invaders Threaten to Seize New Bedford, and Yankee Army Is Taking Position to Meet Advance on This City.

The defending army, the "Blues" in the war game, rushed to the defence of Boston this afternoon.

Hearing that the "Reds" were ready to land off New Bedford, the "Blues" assembled all their men at the various armories and prepared to resist the invaders.

As early as 4:30 a. m. wagon trains and supply trains had been sent out from the Fifth Regiment armory in Charlestown under direction of Colonel William H. Oakes.

The First Corps of Cadets, one of the crack militia bodies of the East, assembled in the Columbus avenue armory and got ready immediately to start out under arms. At 5 p. m. the Cadets left for the front, taking a train at the South Station for Hingham, where they camped. Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Talbot was in command of the Cadets as they swung gallantly out of the armory and marched away to the tuneful war.

On to Line of Battle.

To-morrow the Cadets will get into actual warfare when they move on to the battle line established from the Ridgewaters across two counties to Plymouth.

The Ninth Regiment wagon and supply trains were sent out from the East Armory on East Newton street. The departure of these was in charge of Captain James L. Molloy as regimental quartermaster, with Lieutenant-Colonel John J. Sullivan, commanding officer of the regiment, in general supervision of men and munitions.

Later in the day the Coast Artillery, First Regiment, under Colonel Charles P. Nutter, prepared to move. Massachusetts Battery A moved down from Braintree, where it had encamped over night.

ADVANCE GUARD OF REDS IS HIDING NEAR NEW BEDFORD

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 13.—The advance guard of the Red Invaders, who are to attack Boston, has reached New Bedford waters and is to-day hidden in transports sheltered behind the Elizabethan Islands, off this city.

The exact location and the exact number of troops to reach the war zone are not known. Much excitement prevailed in this old whaling city when it was known that the enemy was right at its portals. All sorts of marine glasses have been brought into play, motor boats have been hired, and every other means employed by interested citizens and scouts from the army of the Blue invaders to get at the location and strength of the attacking force.

Information reached here to the effect that one of the transports was the Kilpatrick.

STEAMSHIP WITH 600 ON BOARD IS GIVEN UP AS LOST

DURBAN, Natal, Aug. 13.—It is now certain that the Australian steamer Waratah, now a fortnight overdue, with 600 persons aboard, has been lost at sea.

A Natal steamer arriving here to-day reported passing four bodies floating ten miles from shore. They are thought to be from the Waratah.

CURTIS FOR CONVENTION CHAIRMAN

Edwin U. Curtis, ex-Mayor of Boston, United States sub-treasurer and Metropolitan Park commissioner, will be chairman of the Republican State convention in Symphony Hall, October 2.

This Action, taken by the Republican State Committee this afternoon, carried out the recommendation of the Executive Committee of the party organization, which met at 11 o'clock.

The executive committee met with Chairman George H. Doty of Waltham presiding. Henry F. Ripley of Boston secretary and Henry F. Field of Northampton, F. W. Dallinger of Cambridge, Robert A. Hammond of Sandwich, Herman Hormel of Boston and J. Otis Wardwell of Haverhill in attendance. The executive committee's business is to recommend to the general committee the man to be picked as chairman of the Republican State convention, the main for chairman of the committee on resolutions and the membership of that committee.

The order from Senator Lodge was to select ex-Mayor Curtis, a close friend of Lodge, chairman of the State convention. As a Federal office holder, it is declared, he has no business taking part in any political affair or holding office in any political organization. This rule was enforced in the case of Jerry McCarthy, Surveyor of the Port, not a friend of Lodge's, and McCarthy had to cease active political work in the last city committee fight. But Lodge wants Curtis and that's all there is to be said about it, rule or no rule.

TARANTULA DANCE DELIGHTS NEWPORT

NARRAGANSETT PIER, Aug. 13.—Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dorpen of New York gave a series of descriptive costume dances in the little ball room of the Mathewson. They were assisted by Miss Belle Ranske and George F. Lindner, violinists, and the Mathewson House orchestra.

One of the features of the dance was the "Tarantula," a dramatic dance song, which was rendered in costume by Miss Ranske. The dance depicts an outdoor fete in Italy suddenly interrupted by a tarantula. The dancer toys with the spider, and finally is overcome by fright and succumbs.

"WOMAN IN WHITE" SEEKING A PARDON

BEVERLY, Aug. 13.—Because of the attempt in Beverly to make a mystery of the visits of a "woman in white" to the executive offices, it was announced to-day that the visitor was Mrs. W. Harry Schmick of Ohio, whose husband, formerly a bank teller, is serving a term in the Leavenworth prison. Mrs. Schmick is seeking a pardon for him.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Aug. 13.—The Naps and Red Sox met this afternoon in the third game of their series.

Early this morning rain began to fall, and for a time it looked like there would be no baseball struggle in Boston this afternoon. However, the Raluman didn't turn loose very much dampness, and, when time for the game arrived the fans, judging from the field, couldn't tell whether it had rained or not.

Heavy clouds hung over the sky all afternoon and many times it appeared that the lugs in the unsheltered stands would get good and wet before the contest was decided.

So far the series has gone against the Naps, and Lajoie was quick to cop off to-day's game, and thus have a chance at getting an even break. He had his whole twirling department out working. Heinie Berger and Falkenberg stemming them over in good shape.

Manager Lake was just as determined to make it eight straight victories by winning this afternoon, and the fans who braved the dreary weather conditions enjoyed a snappy game.

Eddie Cicotte, who has not pitched a game since June 20, was out warming up before the game. The electrical treatment that he has been taking for the past couple of weeks in order to get his wing in shape for duty seems to have helped wonderfully, and Lake expects him to be as good as ever.

CHILDREN FALL 60 FEET FROM ROOF AND LIVE

Freida Olinsky, eight years of age, and Charles, her brother, six, were playing on the roof of the building where they live, No. 71 Phillips street, West End, at noon to-day, when they fell down the airshaft to the basement, sixty feet below.

Their mother, hearing their screams, rushed down to where they lay. Snatching up Charles, who seemed to be the worst injured, she ran with him to the Massachusetts General Hospital. There it was said that his skull had probably been fractured, his jaw broken and his body covered with bruises.

Neighbors called an ambulance from the Relief Hospital for little Freida. It was found that the girl's body was covered with bruises, but she will probably recover. Her brother's condition is extremely serious. The doctors said the wonder was that both children had not been killed instantly.

HALL & HANCOCK FORCED TO WALL

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed to-day in the office of the United States District County Clerk against Hall & Hancock, a Massachusetts corporation, doing business at No. 420 Washington street, Alonzo Hall is the main creditor. His claim is $7,259.99, and there are three other small creditors. It is said that the total liabilities of the concern are $18,000. The assets are $8,000. Hall & Hancock have assigned to William G. Andrew.

"SMELLERS" QUERY 2 MORE OFFICIALS

Superintendent of Public Buildings Morrison and Election Commissioner Minton came before the Finance Commission this afternoon in answer to a summons. They were asked to tell what their respective departments have done toward carrying out certain recommendations made by the old Finance Commission to promote efficiency and economy.

FORTY HURT IN ELECTRIC TRAIN WRECK

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 13.—An electric train on the New Haven road, bound for Providence from Warren, Bristol and the southern suburbs, was derailed while on the new draw bridge over the Seekonk river, one mile out of Providence, at 10 a. m.

The forty passengers in the three cars were thrown about in the cars and most of them injured. Raymond A. Cotter of Providence was the most badly hurt. He was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital, suffering from multiple bruises. A woman who refused to give her name was bruised and hurt, but she refused to go to the hospital.

It is supposed that a misplaced switch caused the train to jump the track. A hurry call was sent to Providence for ambulance and there was much excitement in the city when the news of the accident first came to the city. It was at first feared that the train had tumbled down the high embankment or had fallen over the bridge into the river and the passengers drowned or killed.

FOUR MONTHS FOR ROBBING 'SAMARITAN'

LYNN, Aug. 13.—Harry Olsen, who was cared for by Anax Forney, who played the "Good Samaritan," five years ago, and who, according to Portney, disappeared at the same time $75 worth of jewelry was missing from the house, was given four months in the House of Correction to-day in the Lynn Court by Judge Sisk. Olsen was arrested recently in Boston.

STATE STREET FAILURE.

A voluntary assignment for the benefit of creditors was filed to-day with the City Clerk by Arthur J. Stewart and George R. Yates, doing business under the firm name of Stewart & Yates, No. 60 State street. The assignment was to John M. Kendricken. The assets, which are uncertain, are listed as furniture and fixtures subject to liens, book accounts, cash, stocks, bonds and securities.

WILLARD FLIES TWELVE MILES; OVER 3 TOWNS

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Charles F. Willard, who has been experimenting with the Curtis aeroplane, made a most successful flight to-day from Mineola, L. I., going twelve miles in his machine at an average height of 150 feet and remaining in the air nineteen and a half minutes. Willard's flight was witnessed by thousands of excited men and women of the fashionable country places in and around Westbury, of whom 100 followed his flight in thirty automobiles. A number of laborers on the Long Island Motor Parkway became panic stricken and ran for shelter when they saw the aeroplane.

With his aeroplane, the Red Bug, at all times under perfect control, Willard winged his way over three large towns, crossed five sets of telegraph wires, passed over eight roads and made three long curves on the motor parkway. Sharp turns and abrupt angles were negotiated with the utmost ease. It was only magneto troubles that prevented the aviator from breaking all world's records, he declared after alighting.

The start and the alighting were accomplished easily. Despite the uneven starting ground, the craft rose as gracefully as a bird soars. The descent, too, was skilfully accomplished, the aeroplane gliding smoothly downward in long, circular sweeps and coming to rest almost to an inch where it had been before.

ARCHBISHOP TO LAY SCHOOL CORNER STONE

The laying of the corner stone of the new parochial school of St. Margaret's Church, Columbia road, Dorchester, will take place next Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The ceremony will be performed by His Grace Archbishop William O'Connell. Rev. James William A. Ryan, pastor of the church; his curates, and a large number of clergymen, will take part in the ceremony.

RICH TOURS THE WEST.

Charles J. Rich of Frohman, Rich & Harris, of the Hollis, Colonial and Park Theatres, is on an extended tour of the West. He has crossed the Great Lakes and the Canadian Northwest to Seattle and the Alaska-Yukon Exposition, proceeding to Portland, Ore., and San Francisco. He will be back in time to see the last of the war manoeuvres.

Piper Heidsieck is a name hard to spell, easy to remember, and that stands for the best champagne tobacco in the world.

Ainsmith, p.	Donovan, p.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—The weather is cloudy and threatened rain, but as yesterday passed without a downpour it may be a repetition again to-day. The injury to Catcher Kahoe yesterday places the Nationals in a very bad light, as Blanketship has a broken finger and Street is home in Williamsport with a badly bruised foot. Manager Cantillon said this morning that he would give Kliffert a chance to catch behind the bat, as the new man has quite a reputation as a receiver.

If he can hold the spit ball delivery of Ainsmith in this afternoon's game the Tigers will have the time of their lives to win, as the Nationals are in fine condition excepting the catchers.

But the fans in Philadelphia and Boston should see the mighty band of champions from Detroit. The series with Jennings crew passed through in those cities have simply wilted the team and Sir Hughey is almost daffy. Crawford, Cobb, Rossman and Bush are simply dead set, not only with the stick but in fielding. With McIntyre out of the game, the bunch is still further weakened.

Manager Jennings will probably work Donovan this afternoon. Donovan looked very spry yesterday and is doubtless ready to begin winning only a flash. Jennings certainly worried over the slump of his team and is doing everything possible to bolster up the aggregation. Manager Dunn of Baltimore, and Owner of Harrisburg were here last night and in close conference with Hughey. They may have the new blood wanted by the Detroit manager.

WOULD ABOLISH GRADE.

The Selectmen of Revere to-day petitioned the justices of the Superior Court to appoint a commission to secure the abolishment of the grade crossing of the Narrow gauge road on Winthrop avenue. The Court continued the matter until October 1.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 13.—The ever-kicking fans of this city blamed the date for the hoodoo for rain which fell this morning and threatened to cause a postponement of the third game between the Athletics and St. Louis scheduled for Shibe Park this afternoon.

Announcement was made that the game would not be called off until the very last moment in anticipation of a possible clearing.

In the event of a game being played Dygert and Waddell probably will be the pitchers, with Lapp and Criger catching. Livingstone was hurt in yesterday's game and may be given a rest. Two games probably will be played to-morrow if to-day's game is postponed.

BOSTON WOMAN WINS AT TENNIS

CASINO COURTS, Newport, R. I., Aug. 13.—In the semi-finals of the women's handicap singles, played here this morning, Mrs. Howard Cushing of Boston, with a rating of half 30, defeated Mrs. A. Lanfear Norris, 6-4, 7-5. Mrs. Barger-Wallach beat Miss M. Scott, with a rating of half 30, 6-4, 6-4.

The finals will be contested to-morrow morning.

WOMEN CREDITORS MOVE ON BROKER

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed to-day in the United States District Court against Charles H. Byram, Jr., a stock broker, with offices at No. 15 Congress street. The creditors and the claims they allege follow: Maude C. Morrison, $4,000; Ralph D. Morrison, $250; Fannie Chase, Holyoke, $1,528. The claims filed are said to be for balances due on stock transactions.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 13.—"Friday, the 13th, is surely the combination that will break our luck," said Harry Smith when he sent his men into the game with the Reds this afternoon.

"You fellows play like you have been and luck is bound to break your way," he said.

Manager Smith was anxious to break the long run of defeats that have come his way, and although they have been playing almost as good ball as the leaders, the Doves's boss told them to play all the harder. Every member of the team wanted revenge for their stinging defeat in two games yesterday.

Peaches Graham and Tom Tuckey, a complete battery, has been sent home to Boston by Manager Smith. Graham has a badly spiked hand, the injury being right in the heart of his bunch hook. He will be ready for the regular work when the team arrives in Boston next Monday evening.

There is no reason given for the discarding of Tuckey unless it is that he has been working a great deal below form and Manager Smith thinks it is useless to keep him along with the players.

The weather here was cloudy but no signs of rain. The fans attended the game in good numbers owing to the short winning streak the Reds have been enjoying.

SPAIN'S ARMY BADLY BEATEN

MADRID, Aug. 13.—The Minister of Marine has ordered every available Spanish warship rushed to Melilla, to co-operate with General Marina against the Riff tribesmen.

A report was received here via Lisbon to-day that the Spanish troops at Melilla have been driven from their position with a heavy loss of life, and General Marina, the Spanish commander, had a narrow escape from death. The Spanish officials deny the report.

FOUND DEAD IN HOUSE.

Mrs. Minnie Bowles, colored, was found dead to-day at her home, No. 80 Hastings street, Cambridgeport, by Harriet McHitts, a neighbor. She had been ill a short day.

PLAN TO SHOW BODY OF JOHN WILKES BOOTH

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—Rumor that the body of John Wilkes Booth is in an undertaker's shop in Enid, Ok., and not occupying an unknown grave as has long been generally believed, is L. Bates, a reputable attorney of Memphis, Tenn., recently wrote to an official of the District of Columbia to arrange for the exhibition of the body of the assassin of President Lincoln in Washington.

The plan has progressed so far that a district official in question has been negotiating for a permit to remove the body from Ford's Theatre where Booth fired the fatal shot and within a short distance of the Lincoln Museum where it is kept for exhibition mainly to tourists.

Mr. Bates also wrote to the War Department asking that he be furnished an escort of United States troops to guard the body from Oklahoma to its exhibition place there, and also to prevent, if possible, attempt on the part of excitable individuals to attack the body when placed on exhibition. The War Department refuses to say whether the request will be granted. Officials of the War Department are extremely reticent concerning the Bates letter.

Lawyer's Strange Story.

Strange and wild as the project of the Tennessee lawyer appears on its face, there is plenty of evidence to back up his assertion in regard to the Booth story.

"I have long hesitated to make public the true story of the assassination of President Lincoln, as related to me in 1872 by a man named Ishmael John St. Helen, but who in reality was John Wilkes Booth, the slayer of Lincoln. I had not been convinced beyond doubt that Booth, or St. Helen, while travelling saw in Rusk county, Texas, in 1872, St. Helen was keeping a country store in the place called Gladewater. He was my client in a case in the Federal court at Shreveport over pre-emption rights. St. Helen fell sick and sent for me. He believed he was dying. As he lay there thought, his deathbed, he confessed to me that he was John Wilkes Booth.

"St. Helen, instead of dying, recovered, and went to Enid Ok., where he went under the name of D. E. George. On August 5, 1903, St. Helen, or George, or Booth, committed suicide in an Enid hotel by cutting his throat.

Identified by Joseph Jefferson.

"I had kept his secret for he was my client, and besides before he had divulged his identity to me at Glenrose Mills had pledged me my fee. As soon as he was dead I went to Enid and identified the body.

The body of Booth, preserved by an embalming process has been lying in the undertaker's shop in Enid ever since. It was identified at various times by the late Joseph Jefferson, Junius Brutus Booth, a nephew of John Wilkes Booth and other notables who could not be induced to be interviewed, so Mr. Bates declares.

According to the story Mr. Bates or Booth told Mr. Bates that after shooting President Lincoln, he escaped from Fort Southwest, while another man who resembled him was killed in attempting to escape. Corbett at the Garrett home when the soldiers overtook, as they supposed, Booth in the barn.

Boston Girls, 'On Lark,' Found in New Jersey

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Cornelia and Irene Farber, the sisters who disappeared from their home in Boston on August 1, have been found in Irvington, N. J., where they were visiting friends. When they read in the newspapers that a general alarm had been sent out for them from police headquarters they communicated with a detective agency, and in the afternoon they were joined by their mother, who had come to this city to search for them.

From what the police gathered the sisters, who are the daughters of Boyd Pillsbury Farber, a manufacturer, left home on a lark and didn't realize what a furore their disappearance would cause. They had announced they were going to Narragansett Pier, but instead came to New York, saw the sights and then went to Irvington. The mother forgave the runaways, who are nineteen and twenty-one years old respectively.

NEW ENGLAND-MADE CIGARS FAVORITES

A substantial increase in the sale of New England-made cigars, as opposed to the product of the trust, is reported by William Sandemann, president of the New England Label Conference of the Cigarmakers' Union, who just has returned from a trip throughout the states in the New England section. He states that a large number of tobacco dealers and cigar store proprietors, learning that Secretary of War Dickinson had refused to permit any government contract being entered into with the trust or its fifty subsidiary companies, terming them industrial outlaws, are beginning to withdraw their patronage from the trust and patronize New England manufacturers. The latter almost wholly are independent concerns.

CHASE HALTED BY BARB WIRE

As he ran across fields crying out and firing shots at two fleeting burglars early to day, Patrolman Thomas Hill of the Brookline police got caught in a barb wire fence and lost the chase. A wagon load of reserves summoned by neighbors, who were awakened by the shots, hurried to his assistance, and for an hour searched the shrubbery without success.

Patrolman Sawyer of the Newton police found two men loitering in the Waban district. They gave the names of Harry Ellison and Gustaf A. Jarnbotts. Both said they were twenty-three years of age and had no home. Judge Kennedy in the Police Court held them in $500 on a charge of vagrancy, but later when the Brookline police could not identify them, they were released.

Patrolman Hill heard the crash of glass from the rear of the home of A. W. Pope, a shoe dealings merchants of Boston, living at No. 1,705 Beacon street. He hurried around the house and saw the burglars running off.

King Not Long on Steel.

LONDON—Lord Knollys, private secretary to King Edward, gives an emphatic denial to the statement that Ille Majesty has been speculating in American stocks. The statement in question, which was circulated here from New York, is as follows: "King Edward is said to have bought 50,000 shares of United States Steel and other stocks on the advice of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan last May, when the quotation was about 50. Now the quotation has run up to 70½, and the King, therefore, has been a heavy gainer." In reply to an inquiry, Lord Knollys writes from Buckingham Palace: "I beg to inform you that the statement referring to King Edward is an entire falsehood from beginning to end."

COURT GRANTS RESPITE PLEA OF MRS. THAW

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Aug. 13.—A personal appeal by Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw over the long distance telephone to Justice Mills, sitting in chambers here today, saved Harry Thaw from being sent back to Matteawan immediately.

Deputy Attorney-General Stephens requested the court for an order reconsidering Stanford White's slayer to the asylum, and Charles Morschauser, for Mrs. Thaw, besought the court to have the prisoner sent to some other institution. As the arguments were being made Mrs. Thaw called Justice Mills to the telephone and begged him not to send her son back to Matteawan to-day. The court was touched by this direct appeal.

"Mrs. Thaw has appealed to me over the telephone," he said to Mr. Stephens and Mr. Morschauer. "I hope, Mr. Stephens, that you will have no objection to my putting off the date of the commitment.

"I shall sign the order instructing Dr. Baker to recondult Thaw to Matteawan on next Wednesday.

"This has been a terrible blow to the mother of the prisoner and I hope that you gentlemen will join me in acceding to her request."

The court added that Mrs. Thaw had told him that she had certain papers to sign and business to look after here and wanted a few days. He said that Mrs. Thaw was arranging to live at Fishkill, near the asylum. The order for next Wednesday was then signed.

In the meanwhile the Thaws have made ready to fight any and every demand that Evelyn Nesbit Thaw may make against them. Mr. Morschauser declared emphatically that the young woman who has been the central figure in the tragedy that has lasted for more than three years, will not get any large sums of money from her husband or from his family.

"If she brings action," said Mr. Morschauser, "we will fight it to the end." He declared that she has received her monthly allowance. "I have her receipt for the money. She is being supported as she should be and I would advise her not to go to court."

JAMES K. HACKETTS NOT YET MADE UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—James K. Hackett, the actor, whose wife is Mary Mannering, also theatrical star, has sent to a typewritten statement reading as follows:

"My attorney, Clifford W. Hartridge, issued authoritatively the following statement:

"Miss Mannering's suit for divorce against James K. Hackett has been withdrawn." From this announcement some of the papers have drawn the inference that there has been a reconciliation. I do not wish my attorney's statement—and I have made none myself whatever at any time published—to be misunderstood. I, therefore, wish to state that up to date I regret that the decision is incorrect.

MANCHESTER THIEF IN GARB OF WOMAN

MANCHESTER, Aug. 13.—Detectives from the Pinkerton agency, aided by plain clothes men from the Manchester police force, are searching today for traces of a burglar who, disguised as a woman, entered the Summer home of Garrard Comly, vice-president of the First National Bank, Boston, while the servants were at luncheon and the family on the lawn playing croquet, ransacked all the rooms on the second floor and carried off about $2,000 worth of jewelry from the dressing table in Mrs. Comly's boudoir. The burglar is believed to be a mysterious person dressed as a woman who has been seen about the Manchester Summer colony recently and who for some days has been connected with a number of breaks in fashionable Summer homes along the coast.

CLUB MEMBER IS HELD FOR SECOND TIME ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

For the second time in a little more than two years, Francis M. Gould, society favorite, until recently a member of the exclusive clubs in Newton and received in the best houses in that city, and connected with a wealthy family, is under arrest, charged with burglary. Pending his appearance in the Brookline court next Monday, the police of Brookline, Newton and Roxbury are making a careful investigation of his career. They believe that they can fix upon him a number of burglaries in fashionable homes in Brookline and the Newtons.

Gould is out to-day on bail, pending his arraignment on a charge of attempting to burglarize the home of Carl M. Goodspeed, Marion street, Brookline, last Monday night. On that night members of the Goodspeed family frightened away a burglar who was using a jimmy on a window. The creaking of the window aroused the family. Mrs. Goodspeed caught sight of the burglar as he fled, and her description given the police resulted in Gould's arrest.

Arrested in 1907.

In April, 1907, Newton society was startled by the arrest of Gould on a charge of burglary in the home of John H. Lesh, a wealthy leather merchant living at No. 955 Beacon street, Newton Centre. Gould was caught in the basement of the Lesh home at 3 a. m. A member of the family, returning home, was surprised to notice a light in the basement. He called Officer Groth, and they entered the house. In the basement a light revealed the fashionably dressed Gould. The young man fought desperately against arrest, and at the station house at first denied that he was in the basement for robbery. Later he admitted the theft of three rings. He said he did not know why he committed the burglary.

In court he was held in $1,000 bail for trial in the Superior Court and was freed on bonds furnished by a wealthy aunt, Mrs. Ida J. Gould.

Case Hushed Up.

The case against Gould was never tried although the police were positive he had been operating in other parts of Newton and Brookline. His family, which is wealthy and has influential connections, is said to have succeeded in getting the charge against Gould hushed up.

About a year ago the Gould family gave up their handsome residence at No. 228 Lanskey road and moved to Roxbury. The young Gould entered society, and is said to have boasted of his social successes in the Newtons. He lived at first with his mother and two sisters, who feel the recent arrest of the young man keenly.

Gould was a mystery to the people who knew him at Newton and Roxbury. He dressed fashionably, but no one seemed to know what he did. He was usually away from home two or three days a week. At one time he had been employed by Hartschild, and just previous to his arrest in 1907 said he was employed in a Boston brokerage office.

Young Gould has for several years been a crack golf player and has been seen at many of the most exclusive links in the Newtons, Brookline and Waverly. Only the Spring before last he was a member of the Woodland Club's links. He also took part in the tournament on the Country Club links in Waverly. He has played many matches at the exclusive Albemarle Club's grounds.

JURORS PROBE HEINZE LOAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—An investigation of the Windsor Trust Company's part in the Heinze loan matter was begun by the grand jury of New York County to-day. Assistant District Attorney Nott received notice to that effect from a committee of jurymen. The foreman is Frederick Strauss, a banker, of the firm of J. & W. Seligman & Co.

To Mr. Nott the members of the company said that they are anxious to make a searching quest as to the trust company's part in the handing of the copper stocks deposited as collateral by F. Augustus Heinze's brokers, and later sold under orders from Donald L. Persch, the broker now in the Tombs on charges of grand larceny.

M. Joyce, Heinze's broker, was a witness before the grand jury. The jury decided informally that the loan company's aspect of the case was the most important. There are several bankers on the grand jury.

POLICY, LOTTERY AND CRAP GAMES FLOURISH IN ROXBURY PRECINCT

The AMERICAN presents to-day for the benefit of its readers the police conditions in Division 9, Roxbury, where a large number of burglaries have taken place in the last month.

Captain Thomas Evans is in command of this precinct, which is a large residential section. Not long ago a residential was broken into almost under the shadow of the station house. The police made every effort to keep it a secret and denied all information to the newspaper reporters.

"Go down to Police Headquarters" was their encouraged reply.

"No report of any such break has been received here" was all the satisfaction to be had from Police Headquarters.

There is a big policy game running in this precinct and several sharks rake in the pennies and dimes daily from the poor workingmen and their families who are lured into debt by the hope of getting that elusive 100 to 1 if they pick the right "tic." Policy in several States has been suppressed by making the crime a felony and giving the players and operators long prison sentences. To have policy slips in one's possession in New York is a felony. Captain Evans seems to regard it as a harmless relaxation.

Fake Lotteries Flourish.

There are several fake lotteries of the old-time Louisiana and Central American sort and police officers have been seen to buy these tickets. The men running these games seem certain of their safety.

Political clubs run about as they please, and in such places poker and craps for considerable stakes are always running. The stakes are large enough to keep a good many members "broke" and divert a good deal of money from the butchers and bakers, where it belongs. The police make no visible effort to enforce the excise laws against these clubs. Both the Republican organization headquarters and the Democratic Club of Ward 17 do about as they please. Under the disguise of "smoke talks" these clubs are constituted to sell beer to their members on Sunday in violation of Section 85, Chapter 100, Acts of the revised liquor laws. The Supreme Court has decided that it is illegal for a club to give intoxicants to even its own members on Sunday.

There may be some explanation of the police laxity in this precinct in the fact that several officers in uniform have been the frequent guests of the clubs and have not hesitated to accept their quota of the "buds" when it was proffered.

Several parents have complained that their boys, mere school lads, have been arrested on small pretexts, usually loitering, so that policemen who have been loafing in a brewery in the precinct might use the arrest as an excuse for delay in ringing in their duty call.

Arrests Only Pretexts.

It is also claimed that several arrests have been made by policemen whose posts are far distant from the station house for no other purpose than that they might bring their prisoners in in the patrol wagon and avoid the long walk. A physician in Dudley street told the AMERICAN reporter that he knew of several such cases, preposterous as the accusation may seem.

It must be said that there are a large number of first-class policemen in this precinct, men of family and who have small sympathy with the shirkers who profit by the lax and almost complete absence of discipline. There are just as good policemen in this precinct as in any city in the United States, but lacking competent direction and fearful of treading on some superior's toes, they are discouraged in their efforts to do genuine police work.

Captain Evans, the petty Czar of the precinct, absolutely refuses to give the newspapers any information about what is going on in his precinct, and taxpayers who have complaints to make to him get scant courtesy.

Club Is Shielded.

Not long ago the Democratic Club in Ward 16 was tipped off about an impending raid on account of a crap game and when the raid was finally made the evidence had been destroyed. Captain Evans in reporting this raid to his superiors at Pemberton square did not state that it was a political club.

Men arrested for whatever cause are at once adjudged guilty by some of the police in this precinct, and it is not an uncommon sight to see an officer step and punch his prisoner right in front of the lieutenant, who is taking the man's pedigree. An AMERICAN reporter saw such an incident and the officer on the desk made no comment and did not try to stop it.

Officers can be found asleep nightly in the stables in Norfolk avenue and Hampden street, an undertaking room and in the Norfolk street brewery.

Carl P. Mellows, a publisher's representative at No. 24 Milk street, makes the following statement to the AMERICAN:

Notorious Dive Near Homes.

Dartmouth street, from Huntington avenue up to the Hotel Tipton, near the railroad bridge, is infested with colored hoodlums and street walkers. It's insane for a decent woman to walk on that thoroughfare. If she does, colored drunks insult her. The police seem to be inactive. They know of this but don't exert all to do nothing.

A notorious place is run wide open. Every Sunday this place does a land office business. The police are relative to sitting at tables is openly visited. Men can be seen standing at the bar on Sundays from the street. The police know all this, for in the evening the drunks from this hotel stand on the corner near the black Bay station and insult women as they pass. The police should be given a hauling over for their negligence in allowing such things in what has been regarded as an orderly section of the city.

The God-fearing people of that section are with the AMERICAN in its fight to compel the police to do their duty."

Chauffeurs Cry Persecution.

The taxicab chauffeurs are complaining of persecution by the police. They say that since the AMERICAN began to expose the abuses of the police system they have been hounded constantly for the slightest any pretext, no matter how trivial, so that the police may make a great show of activity. A committee representing more than a hundred of these chauffeurs called on the AMERICAN to print the following statement of their case:

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

We have read with interest your articles on the efficiency of the police department, appreciating especially the charges that the patrolling automobile effort toward punishing trivial offenses than running down the real evil. We would like to say that this is particularly true in the case of the taxicab drivers, and add that they are often the victims of unjust police discrimination. Frequently teams and private cars violate the traffic regulations and escape, but no taxicab driver has ever slipped up on any clause of the code without being summoned into court.

As a matter of fact, we are actually hounded and spied upon so they can haul us on some small violation. On Boylston street, in a three-story wagon down, a policeman from the Back Bay station is assigned to watch motor drivers, and signal the police to stop cars. Very often they catch some poor taxi driver, who is urged on by an impatient or tardy fare. If we refuse to hurry we are complained of at the office and blamed for missing trains or appointments.

When we hurry, we are raught and fined. Very often this is for a slight infraction of the regulations.

We want only fair and just treatment in the matter, and hope your paper will assist us.

(Signed) TAXICAB CHAUFFEURS.

MEDFORD WILD COW CAPTURED

A near-Wild West cast of a rope lariat by Edward W. Mitchell, superintendent of cemeteries for Medford, brought to an end the wild career of the cow owned by Herrman Golden, which has been a free lance for more than a week. Golden had offered a reward of $20 for the apprehension of the cow, but the reward was a secondary consideration with Mitchell, for the unruly beast had eaten up nearly all of the flowers and shrubs in the cemeteries. Michael McGrath accompanied Mitchell, and the two mounted on fleet horses. As Mitchell's lasso lighted about the cow's horns McGrath neatly placed one around one of her hind legs, and she went down, helpless. Nearly 200 men had tried to round up the cow and earn the reward.

WAR GAME MARKET FOR STOLEN HORSES

LINCOLN, Aug. 13.—Residents of this and surrounding towns are guarding their stables in the fear of horse thieves who have been operating with unusual daring during the past fortnight. The latest theft reported was that of a dark bay mount stolen from the stables of the South Lincoln Dairy Company, early Tuesday night. Several more valuable horses were passed by to secure the saddle horse. Men connected with the stable state that every available riding horse within a radius of thirty miles of Boston has been secured for use in the war game and that such horses command a large premium.

RULES MAN MAY SWEAR AT WIFE

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Husbands may swear at their wives with impunity from street, according to the opinion of Municipal Judge Gemmill. Furthermore, he believes that a wife has no redress in court if her husband threatens to desert her. If the husband returns home intoxicated the wife may not have him arrested unless he beats her. The judge stated that profane and emphasized it by refusing to issue a warrant for a wife who told the court that she believed her husband intended to leave her and that she wished him arrested.

AUTO TRUCK CAUSE OF $45,000 BLAZE

LEOMINSTER, Aug. 13.—Just one spark from the engine of an auto truck blown through the door of a storehouse started a $45,000 fire in the plant of the Foxwell Company and before the blaze had been conquered three one-story sheds, a tenement and other buildings, had been destroyed, while the employes of the company were driven to the streets for their lives. It was the worst fire that the town has known for a number of years.

The litigation will come before Justice Goff in the Superior Court New York, upon an order to show cause why D. Irving Cobb should not be substituted as attorney for the trustees in place of Maurice Leon.

McIntyre brought the suit secretly before, referee a short time before his death. It was nearly finished when he was taken with illness which proved fatal. This was a short time before the contested marriage of which he was a spectator went to the wall with countercharges and over $1,000,000 worth of litigation.

Mr. McIntyre married Lucy Alvin Mitchelor his second wife. Miss Lucy Mitchel who married Herbert Seeley while a was still in her teens, was in daughter when the divorced Seeley settlement was made in her favor by step-father, now the trustee of the fund she was still a minor.

MRS. SUTTON IN TEARS AT CLOSING PLEA

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 13.—Thrilling the auditors in the crowded court room, Attorney Davis made his closing speech in the Sutton inquiry to-day. Dramatic at times, his address was always forceful and occasionally the pathetic picture he painted of Lieutenant Sutton's death caused the spectators to weep.

The defendant lieutenants, Utley, Osterman, Adams and Willing, shifted uneasily in their seats. Mrs. Sutton, the mother whose love led her to work for two years to clear the name of her son from the stigma of suicide, was unable to control her sobs as the lawyer went on drawing out the pathos of her son's death and her own sacrifice.

Her daughter, Mrs. Parker, though calmer under the strain of the closing moments of the struggle which she had waged so long showed deep emotion while the lawyer spoke.

Attorney Davis scored what he called the indecent haste in which the first inquiry had been held. Then he pictured dramatically the events in Lieutenant Sutton's life in the service corps up to the time he was buried in unconsecrated ground. While the mother tried in vain to check her tears and the sister of the dead lieutenant sat biting her lips to hide her emotion, Mr. Davis went on.

The scene in Carvel Hall, the last night Sutton spent on earth, when he was with Miss Stewart and Professor Coleman; the midnight address, the promise that all would done together to-morrow if the fellow "Jimmie" had paid his mother as he sat in conversation—all were told over again with an artist's skill.

"And yet they tell us," said Mr. Davis, "that this boy, who left his companions under these circumstances, by within an hour a corpse, the victim of a violent death by his own hand."

TOWN BURNED; MILLION LOSS

DOVER, Del., Aug. 13.—Milton, a banking port town of 2,000 inhabitants, thirty-eight miles south of here, was wiped out by fire early to-day. Of 170 buildings—business establishments and residences—only twelve are left standing.

Practically all the inhabitants are now homeless, and in answer to an appeal for aid Governor Pennewill sent a troop of soldiers to the scene with tents and provisions.

The Sussex Trust and Title Company, where $80,000 was on deposit, was destroyed, the fire proof vault in which the money was kept alone remaining intact. The value of the property destroyed is estimated at $1,000,000.

RED INVADERS HIDE OFF NEW BEDFORD

ARMY OF BLUES MOBILIZING ON COAST TO REPEL BOSTON ATTACK ON MONDAY.

rick from New York, with about 1,000 regulars aboard. It is known that two other transports are in the invading fleet. It is believed that they contain soldiers from Washington.

Outside the city are encamped the second troops, was made over history at Saint Jann with Roosevelt and other valiant fighters. They are to join the Reds.

Blues to Use Balloons.

The actual landing of the Reds will not begin until to-morrow morning at 5 o'clock. This will be accomplished without even a bloodless battle, for it is agreed that the great war game is not to begin in earnest until 5 o'clock Monday morning.

In the meantime, however, the officers of both side will neglect no opportunity to get any information they may from either side. Information as to the movements of the enemy is not to be taken by either side from private citizens.

Balloons are to be used by the Blues to gather information about the Reds. Just how the Reds will utilize automobile scouts in getting a line on their opponents has been sedulously kept from the public. It is believed that something sensational will be brought into play that has never figured in a battle before.

While it has been rumored that rifles are to be barred, the information cannot be confirmed. It is the general belief that spring in some form will be done that will prove effective and unique.

Colored Troops in Camp.

The first of the Texas Twenty-Fifth United States Cavalry, comprising the colored troops at Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, under the command of Major Grierson, are here early to-day. A detachment of 400 camped at Cleveland Park, north of East Freetown, late last night. Both the men and horses are in excellent condition, and are taking things easy.

The black San Juan heroes broke camp at Mansfield at 7 o'clock yesterday morning and tramped in four detachments, making a brief stop at Taunton, where a scouting party bearing dispatches left the main body and started for Bridgewater. While the cavalry is a hospital corps of twenty-four men and their mascot, a white mule, bearing a red cross.

Gen. Leonard Wood, umpire of the war game, arrives here to-day and to-morrow goes to his headquarters at White Farm, in Lakeville, twelve miles from New Bedford. While here he will occupy rooms at the Parker house, as will also the foreign attaches who will witness the "fighting." The foreign attaches include Col. Baron de Bode of the General Staff of the Imperial Russian army, Major Devilla of the General Staff of the Mexican army, Captain Gamier de Clamorran of the General Staff of the French Army and Captain Griffith Evans of the Royal British Engineers. The foreign delegation is in charge of Capt. William S. Gaignard of the second field artillery, who will be the official host for the United States military attaches in Paris.

General Wood's headquarters at Lakeville will be in charge of Capt. Charles Burnham, umpires and observers will gather and the official reports of the war day by day from every point of view.

The King Philip Tavern in Lakeville, a famous old hostelry, has been selected as the executive use of the wives of the army officers who ride west in the Red division. A considerable tract of land has been secured about the tavern, which is to be used as a rifle for tents.

Police Will Aid.

Fire New Bedford police will be on duty to-morrow early under Captain John C. Parker to aid in keeping order while the Red Army land within the limits of New Bedford.

A detachment of regulars from Fort Rodman went to Fairhaven to-day and pitched camp. As the soldiers from this force are working in conjunction with the police it is supposed that detachment will be on hand to make observations of the enemy lands.

The Fourth Company, Coast Artillery, of New Bedford, which is to be the Blue invaders, has been through a hard siege of drilling in infantry tactics for a week and it is well prepared for the conflict. This detachment leaves here early to-morrow to join the Massachusetts militia centred at Middleboro and will probably be attached somewhere between Plymouth and Attleboro. Just what division it will be in the battle cannot be ascertained.

The first actual landing of soldiers of the Red Army came when the transport New Hampshire put several companies ashore and several hundred men and a great car go of commissary stores for the invaders in this city.

Brigade General Bliss, who will handle the invading warriors, is on the Kilpatrick. Other officers with him are: Col. George H. Anderson, General Staff of the Army; Alfred E. Smith, quartermaster department; Major William Bliss, corps of engineers; Col. Orrin Mitchell, ordnance department; Capt. A. L. Gerhardt, quartermaster in charge of manoeuvres; Col. Dean Tilford and others.

INVADERS REACH BAY STATE COAST

The Red Army of 10,000 soldiers started its invasion of Massachusetts to-day. To-day the advance guard of the invading army of Major-General Tasker H. Bliss, U. S. A., actually landed on Massachusetts soil. Now the danger of Boston's capture begins, though the war will not be under way until 5 a. m. Monday.

Three thousand New York militiamen are on their way from transports off the Massachusetts coast. Thirteen hundred militiamen from the District of Columbia are on the seas en route to the Red Army. Major-General Leonard A. Wood, U. S. A., chief umpire, his staff of umpires and United States and foreign observers, are on their way in an army transport, and will be in their headquarters near New Bedford, late to-night.

The third state members of the North United States regular cavalry, fresh from the Philippines, reached New Bedford, where they will join the Red Army to-morrow.

The several thousand Connecticut troops, forming the great strength of the Red Army, to-day began their march to the coast headquarters, where they go on the sea.

The plans of the invading army are secret. No one knows where they will land. Their plans are known only to their commanding officer, General Bliss.

This army will try with all its strength, using every means known to modern warfare, balloons, wireless, searchlights, to break through the line of defence put up by the Blue Army and capture Boston. The problem is simple. Seven thousand Massachusetts soldiers will try to beat back the invaders. This war game will show just what this. Can Boston be captured by a foreign army which has landed on Massachusetts soil?

The Blue Army of 7,000 men, under General Perry, began its work to-day of preparing its battle line across the State from the Atlantic to Plymouth. Battery A of the field artillery—the swagger Buck Island command—is on duty at Fort Rodman to-day. To-day the First Corps of Cadets started for its position along the line.

Since early morning trains of army wagons, loaded with supplies, tents, baggage, mess and ammunition, have been arriving. Their new country is to make ready for the coming of the army. A train of the Fifth Regiment in Charlestown left there at 10:30 a. m. to-day.

Companies from Springfield, Worcester, Fitchburg, Salem—every city and town which made a big showing in the recent mobilization—these supply wagons started out to-day.

Every one of these soldiers will be distinguishable in all of these cities. Early to-morrow the quartermaster-in-charge of the Blue Army begins.

The Massachusetts soldiers will be under their tents to-morrow night, and will march and ride all along the battle line during the early or Monday morning and by sometime between the hours of 5 o'clock on Monday morning and 5 o'clock Monday noon, the actual fighting will begin.

Where the fighting will be no one knows. The Blue Army must defend Boston at all costs, at any point.

The game closes on Saturday, August 21, with a grand review of both armies in Boston.

The regular army coast forts join hotly themselves in readiness to take part in the fighting. With General Wood on the transport Kilpatrick are the forces over from New York, are eight companies of regular coast artillery. These will be distributed among the Boston forts, "searchlights to be lowered and lowering over Gallops and in Boston harbor, the interior of the forts have been painted the slate war color, and night drills are being held. Colonel Robert E. Patterson, U. S. A., commanding the Boston Artillery district, will prepare his forts and be ready at all times to fight off the enemy.

It is not known whether or not the Blue forces which are landing over the Red Army will make a naval attack on the forts in conjunction with the land attack by forces of the Red Army. If they do, the forts will be ready for them. The regular eight shock cars for the horses, eight flat cars, ten passenger coaches, one mail car for baggage and one combination coach, twenty in all.

The officers of the battery are Captain Frank Wheaton, Jr., First Lieutenant Alexander S. MacGregor, First Lieutenant Ernest D. Peck, Second Lieutenant Gregory F. Stanchfield and Second Lieutenant Louis Cox.

Major Charles F. Sargent in command of the Lawrence, Worcester and Boston battalions, with his staff, will go along with Company L.

Company L, Eighth Regiment, and Company H, Ninth Regiment, are under orders to leave here to-morrow morning. Company L is to go at 7:15 o'clock, and Company H at 8:30 o'clock.

Captain Edgar G. Holt of Company L has been placed in command of the scouts and First Lieutenant P. F. Graham will command the cyclists. Captain Frank L. Bowman commands Company F. The Eighth Regiment Drum Corps will go with Company L.

FALL RIVER BOYS OFF EARLY TO-DAY TO JOIN "BLUES"

FALL RIVER, Aug. 13.— At 7:05 o'clock to-day the Twelfth Company, Coast Artillery Corps, Captain David Fuller commanding, left for Bridgewater to join the Blue Army and help General Pew keep the invaders from carrying off the "white house." The company's camp equipment—cook stove, officers' tents, water barrels, mess chests, etc., was sent over the road yesterday in charge of Quartermaster Sergeant Robinson, with Private Hogan as chauffeur. Sergeants Bradshaw and O'Mara, who are to be the cooks, left at 5:30 a. m. This morning the company assembled at the armory on Bank street at 6 o'clock and marched to the railroad station to the music furnished by the band.

The men of the Twelfth Company have been doing quite a lot to carry their canteen and ammunition. Instead of the old-time cartridge belt they have an arrangement which has a suspended attachment for the belt, which seems to relieve the shoulders instead of the hips. There are also leggins for ammunition, each holding ten cartridges, besides the canteen and bayonet. The Twelfth Company will have a baggage and two ambulances, four cycles, Private Anderson will run the motorcycle and Privates Phillips and Baldwin the bicycles.

BRIGHAM DENIES THAT HE REFUSED COLORED CAVALRY

The report that Adjutant-General William H. Brigham had declined to use the colored veterans of the "Fighting Tenth" Cavalry, because he wanted the glory of defending the State with the local militia, is incorrect. General Brigham tried to get the colored soldiers and was unable to do so. A reporter General Brigham said to-day:

"The statement attributed to me is entirely unfounded and incorrect. Instead of refusing the services of the regular cavalrymen, I am on record as having asked the general for them and they will be called for duty. I wanted to use these troops and was denied their services. I am preparing a statement which will be sent out."

BLOOMERS SHOCK N. Y. SCHOOL BOARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—A shocking discovery has been made by two members of the New York Board of Education. They found not one, but several, young women teachers wearing bloomers on school playgrounds. They were so wrought up about it they said they were going to introduce an anti-bloomer resolution at the next meeting of the Board. One of the astonished Board members declared: "It is not proper to wear bloomers where they have to meet men, as they do on the playgrounds. Whenever we went the policemen were always on the other side of the playground. These young women have to meet janitors and the men teachers, too."

SEE BABY ANIMALS IN LEXINGTON ZOO

The baby animals at Lexington Park are educational and a never-ending source of interest to the young folk. There is a young Nyl Ghau, a baby buffalo, baby bears and baby deer. The great park also includes such a number of free shows that there are no dull moments, and the theatre, with a splendid vaudeville bill, is free to spectators. The Holiday American publishes a free ticket of admission to Lexington Park, good on Tuesday and Friday, and it is the coolest, shadiest park in Massachusetts.

2 HELD IN $800 FOR ATTEMPT TO ROB

Two young men, charged with assault and attempt to rob Abraham Abelman, a junk dealer, at No. 18 Whittier street, Roxbury, were held in $800 for the Grand Jury at the Municipal Court of the District Court to-day. They gave the names of Edward J. Croke, twenty-five of No. 23 Heath street, and Lewis Hasselman, twenty-one of No. 30 Fort avenue, both of Roxbury. Abelman declared the men demanded money and, when he refused, struck him. The men say Abelman assaulted them in a dispute over a junk sale, and they removed his knife.

O'MEARA TO STOP MOTOR BOAT NOISE

The "Chug! Chug! Chou-t-t!" made by the motor boats about Boston must be silenced according to an order issued to-day by Commissioner O'Meara. The last legislature passed a law that all motor boats must use under water exhausts, or mufflers. This law was passed in April, but the motor boats have kept on making noise. Now it must stop.

GRAFT CHARGE IN BROCKTON LAND PURCHASE

BROCKTON, Aug. 13.—Charges of a plot to loot the city treasury of $12,000 in the purchase of a site for the new Montello fire station this afternoon formally laid before the City Council Committee on the Fire Department by Mayor Keat, who denounced the deal as the trough of the charge. The Mayor called a special meeting of the committee to consider the charges, and the investigation began this afternoon.

George A. Carter, a wealthy manufacturer, called on the Mayor and told him that he (Carter) had been approached with an invitation to join in a plot to hold up the city for an exorbitant price for land to be purchased for the fire station. He refused, but the charge is made that a member of the committee was in the deal and dictated the purchase of the John Healey lot on North Main street for $24,000.

Real estate experts and prominent citizens say this land is worth not more than $12,000. Chairman Harry C. Howard of the committee, says there was no graft in the deal. Ex-Alderman Fred H. Packard and B. F. Brigham, the real estate dealer who sold the lot, pick him up, and declare the city paid a fair price for the lot. He has been directed that should the committee "whitewash" the charges, court action will be taken to prevent the city from carrying out the deal.

A Want Advt. Is Often the Road to Fortune.

This Is It! FRIDAY, 13TH! DAY OF THE DOUBLE JINX!

THANK heaven, it doesn't happen very often! It has happened only once this year—that's to-day—and it may be some consolation for you to know that it couldn't happen again this year. If anything went wrong with you to-day, don't be worried over it. Just consider it a trifle and take consolation in the knowledge that it had to occur. Just charge it up to the Double Jinx.

If you don't know the Double Jinx, allow us to introduce him. He's an evil spirit, who holds away only on Fridays that fall on the 13th day of the month, and he was created simply to hurl defiance at Billiken, the God of Things as They Ought to Be. Behold some of the high jinks, or rather the low-down jinks which the Double Jinx did to-day:

Taft Doesn't Forget the Double Jinx Day.

BEVERLY, Aug. 13.—To-day being Friday, the thirteenth of the month, President Taft did not attend to a number of what some persons consider important matters. Among them were the following:

He did not appoint Seth Low Minister to England.

Ditto Secretary of the Navy Meyer.

Ditto ex-President Roosevelt.

He did not appoint five members of the Customs Court.

He did not answer Senator Cummins.

He did not send Clifford Pinchot to a political pulp.

He did not see THE MYSTERIOUS WOMAN IN WHITE.

Jack Johnson Fined $13 for Speeding His Auto.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion, was to-day fined $13, with $10 costs added, making $23 in all, for speeding his automobile in Michigan avenue yesterday.

Double Jinx Stings Boy for a $20 Bill.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The Double Jinx got to work on the Leigh family of Burglontown, N. J., early to-day. Thinking that a $20 bill given to him by his mother was a worthless imitation, Raymond, the thirteen-year-old son of Abraham Leigh, tried it in Jersey Neighbour, superintendent of the Vernor-Livingston quarries, for ten cents' worth of candy. With which to buy candy. Not only was Raymond stung in the transaction, but father stung him in the woodshed.

Sent to Hospital by Mosquito's Bite.

ATHOL, Aug. 13.—A mosquito, guided by the Double Jinx, jabbed its sword into the strong right leg of George M. Pike, a motor cycle rider. The poison spread through the man's whole system. To-day it was announced Pike will be removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

Hoodoo Sets Fire to Cohen's Uninsured Collar.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—While Police Sergeant Cohen was looking at the fire open pot on a blaze in his home at Rosebank, S. I., a spark lit on his fine white starched collar, value 15 cents, and ignited. Then there was a flash and a spurting out of black smoke and yelping the sergeant's head; the while he performed a spot extraordinary and picturesque. He did howled things which no newspaper going into right-minded families would print. When the fire in the collar burned out the sergeant went to a clothing store and showed the assistant how he had got it in the neck, so to speak. Then he went home, had a shave, hair and no mustache to speak of, but he'll be on the job again in a few days.

Chopped Off Thumb Cutting High Heels.

NEWARK, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Disdaining to wear a high heel, Mrs. Adelle Harrison of Union Township, tried to cut a thumb down with a chisel.

Failing, she took an axe, but as she brought the blade down on the second heel it slipped and cut off her left thumb.

Woman Is Blinded by a Cow's Horn.

PITTSFIELD, Aug. 13.—While Mrs. Heron Cadwell of Canaan, Ct., was in her barnyard preparatory to milking a cow she stumbled and fell toward the animal, her left eye striking the cow's left horn. Mrs. Cadwell was so badly injured that she was rushed by automobile to this city, a distance of more than thirty miles, and taken to the House of Mercy. It was said she is badly inflamed that there is no hope of saving it.

Leaves Auto Ten Minutes; Thief Steals the Car.

A touring car, No. 1,584, Massachusetts register, valued at $2,000, the property of William H. Mitchell of Point Shirley, Winthrop, was stolen from the street in front of his home on Shirley street. Mitchell had been riding and he came home to get some money for the purpose of accompanying him. He had been in the house about ten minutes, and when he came out the machine was gone. He at once informed the Winthrop police, and a search is being made for the stolen car.

Steals a Horse to Cure Stomach Trouble.

LYNN, Aug. 13.—James Johnson, no home, told Judge Sisk, to-day, in the Lynn court, that he had stolen a horse and carriage belonging to F. Moore, of West Peabody, because he had stomach trouble, Johnson said he intended to sell the team and take the "rest cure" on the proceeds. Judge Sisk gave Johnson four months in the House of Correction. "Do you mean me?" Johnson cried out when the sentence was passed. "Yes," answered the court, "we want to give you a chance to cure your stomach trouble."

Man Five Times 13 Years Old Goes to Workhouse.

LAWRENCE, Aug. 13.—Eben Woodberry, sixty-five years old, which is five times thirteen, of Hudson, N. H., was today sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction for the larceny of 47 pounds of rubber belting from the mill of Charlestown State Prison for theft and sentenced to

MISS DRAPER PITCHES NINE TO A VICTORY

Miss Dorothy Draper, the charming young daughter of Governor and Mrs. Eben S. Draper, is being showered with congratulations to-day at the Profile House in the White Mountains on the result of two events in which she figured as a conspicuous success. The popular debutante pitched a winning game of baseball between the Feml Nine and Male Nine yesterday, and in the evening the smartest function of the season, a white cotillion, was given in her honor by Mrs. Arthur Burke Twombly of New York.

Harold Talpin of New York was the partner of Miss Draper. Her father and mother were present. The entertainment of the Governor's daughter this Winter in Boston will be one of the chief social events of the year.

The ball game in which Miss Draper took such an active and successful part was one of the most unusual events that ever occurred in the famous New England mountain section.

It was announced in this way:

"Suffragists take notice! On Thursday at 3 p. m., the Femi Nines will play the Male Nines for the championship of the Profile House. The male nine will be handicapped by having to wear feminine attire and to throw the ball with only the left hand."

That the men were handicapped is proved by the score, 20 to 8, against them.

Miss Draper was captain of the Femi Nines, and Harry Holbrook captained the Male Nines. The men wore "peek-a-boo" waists and short skirts, both snowy white, and their locks were tied with ribbons of variegated colors and covered with last year's hats, borrowed from women.

Miss Draper pitched a remarkable game, never passing more than three men in any one inning. Those at bat had a choice between being easily hit by a ball or batting it far and wide with a tennis racket.

Many beautiful flowers which were sent to Mrs. Twombly in honor of her coming-in the evening formed the color decoration of the ballroom. The imported favors, which were of unusual beauty and value, included airships in miniature, star-tipped wands, hand-painted court-plaster cases, candy boxes, match safes, baseballs, helmets, post cards and silver pencils.

The opening figure was of post cards, embellished with the old time style of the quadrille, and a unique figure was that originated by Mrs. Twombly, in which the lady holding up her china doll, "Mary," called "Where's my little lamb?" The men, carrying their woolly lambs, scrambled to find their Marys.

All the dancers wore powdered hair, while the men wore colored satin collars on their coats to relieve their somber evening dress.

Among Mrs. Twombly's guests were Governor and Mrs. Eben S. Draper of Massachusetts, Mrs. Francis N. Bangs, Mr. and Mrs. David P. Kimball, the Misses Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Wite of Boston.

Mrs. Twombly and Governor Draper opened the ball with the first dance. Mrs. Twombly's gown was of ivory brocaded satin, and her jewels were quite the most beautiful seen here this season.

Is Blanche Oelrich Marry L. M. Thomas?

Miss Blanche Oelrichs, whose engagement to Leonard Moorhead Thomas is expected to be announced August 28.

Although Mrs. Charles M. Oelrichs denies that her beautiful daughter, Miss Blanche, is engaged to marry Leonard Moorhead Thomas of Philadelphia, society is convinced that an announcement of just that happy event will be made at the Clambake Club dinner-dance at Newport on August 28.

The son of the Philadelphia millionaire partner of the Drexels is not now in Newport, but on all but frequent visits this Summer his devotion to Miss Oelrichs has been frank and unconcealed.

Miss Oelrichs is one of the most beautiful women in Newport. She is a little more than eighteen years old. Her sister, also a famous beauty, is Mrs. Peter D. Martin, and she is a relative of the Havemeyers and other distinguished families. She has a pronounced taste for athletics, swimming, golfing and tennis being her chief outdoor diversions, while as a dancer her grace is as charming as her suitors have been many.

Mr. Thomas is a son of George C. Thomas, the Philadelphia banker. He graduated from Yale about eight years ago and has been secretary of the United States Embassies at Rome and Madrid. He, too, is an ardent sportsman, and many have been the golf matches that he has played with Miss Oelrichs—with Cupid as caddy.

Typhoid In Impure Water

In nearly every case, typhoid as well as malaria, dysentery and the other hot weather complaints that so often end fatally has been traced to impure water.

Because to the naked eye the water appears clear is no guarantee that it is pure. Often one has but to look at it through a magnifying glass to see millions of deadly microbes.

The water supply in many country places, small towns and Summer resorts at times becomes contaminated with sewage and other impurities, owing to one or another of several causes that are common.

Doctors of all schools claim that a teaspoonful of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in each glass of water you drink acts as a germ killer. When you go to the country for the Summer take a supply with you. For over fifty years Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has been prescribed by doctors and used in hospitals in the treatment of dyspepsia, indigestion, typhoid and malaria, and all forms of stomach troubles. It is a positive cure for cramps, dysentery, sunstroke, cholera morbus and chills. It quickens the circulation, purifies and enriches the blood, builds new nerves, muscles and brain tissue, and gives fresh life and vitality to every part of the body.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain; great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, thus producing a liquid food requiring no digestion in the form of a pharmaceutical whiskey, which is one of the most effective tonic stimulants and invigorators known to science; its palatability and freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold everywhere by druggists, grocers and dealers or shipped direct for $1.00 per bottle.

Our Consulting Physician will send to every reader of the Boston American advice and an interesting illustrated medical booklet free of charge. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

GRECO-TURK CRISIS SURE TO BRING WAR

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 13.—War with Greece is believed inevitable. Troops are massed on the frontier and more will be sent to-day. The forts near Salonica have been strengthened for war. Turkey's answer to Greece over the Cretan affair will be an ultimatum.

Dissatisfaction is felt by the Cabinet over ambiguous paragraphs in the Greek note, and a communication is being prepared to be forwarded to Athens, demanding an explanation of the doubtful clauses. The Turkish Parliament is in extra session taking steps to rehabilitate the national treasury and raise a war fund. The military is demanding war with Greece. In the barracks the talk is wholly of war.

Niazi Bey, the Young Turk leader and hero of the July revolution, asserts at Usküb, European Turkey, that the Albanian clamor for war is merely a clerk to strike a blow at the supremacy of the Young Turks.

The ministers of war and marine have been instructed by the Cabinet to make every preparation for conflict. They look upon war as the only solution of the Cretan problem.

The consultative committee is sitting to-day at Canea, Crete, to decide whether the Greek flag shall not be raised over the fortress and public buildings, and Turkey and Greece be thrown into conflict by this daring deed. The ambassadors of the powers are doing all in their power to avert war, but their efforts look hopeless. The fear of war between Turkey and Greece has led the powers to double the number of warships stationed at Crete.

URGE WORK TO BUILD UP BOSTON PORT

"The shipping business of the port of Boston is at a very low ebb. Last year, with 25,000,000 invested in its vessels, the Leyland line didn't earn one per cent on the money invested, without allowing one cent for depreciation of value on its vessels. It has paid no dividend for six years, and under present conditions it is absolutely impossible to grant an increase of wages to the longshoremen."

The foregoing statement, made by Frederick Toppan, Boston agent of the International Mercantile and Marine Association, at the thirtieth anniversary of District Assembly No. 30, Knights of Labor, celebrated in Roughan Hall, Charlestown, before several hard, cold facts.

Mr. Toppan, in common with the representatives of steamship and railroad companies at the celebration, was outspoken in his acknowledgment of the justness of the freight handlers' and longshoremen's contention that their wages had remained stationary for twenty years, while the cost of living had almost doubled in that time.

"But," he said, "it is a condition which we cannot remedy. We simply cannot raise wages just at present. It will need the co-operation of everybody to bring the business here that it is necessary to have if present wages even are to be continued, although I sincerely wish that the men who work along the water front could get more, for they really deserve more than they now receive."

There were 125 delegates and guests present, Michael O'Mera, secretary-treasurer of the district body, was toastmaster. Other speakers were Alexander Ross, district master workman; C. E. Lee, general superintendent of the Boston & Maine; Thomas Coveney, past state master workman; W. Litchfield, manager of the Wharf Division; J. F. Vinson, agent for Lombard & Sons' Calcutta line; G. L. R. French, superintendent of the Boston & Maine terminal division; A. J. Normander, past master workman; John Rendils, treasurer of Neptune Lodge, Ancients and Michael White, master workman of the Boston & Albany.

MRS. TARBOX SEEKS ONLY HER FREEDOM

Mrs. Bernard L. Tarbox, the young, deserted wife of the coal merchant, who eloped with his pretty stenographer, Gertrude Deeline, to-day declares in explanation of her suit for divorce just filed, that all she wants is her freedom. Any prosecution of Mr. Tarbox must come from the officers of the law, and she is not interested or concerned about it.

Mrs. Tarbox is now in Bath, Me. In her suit for divorce she names Miss Deviue, the stenographer. The whereabouts of both are unknown. Mrs. Tarbox said to-day:

"I know that people have been wondering why some action has not been taken earlier in the case from my side. But what was there to do beyond asking for divorce? All prosecution should come from the officers of Rhode Island. All that concerns me is the legal freedom which his elopement entitles me to.

"I cannot discuss the elopement. I can not even, after sleepless nights of wondering, account for Mr. Tarbox's act. I try to be charitable when thinking of Miss Devine, but how can I feel toward Mr. Tarbox but deeply humiliated and insulted as well as injured. I will never get over the affair.

"Now, I have not the slightest idea where they now are, except that I suppose they are somewhere in Canada. Am I eager to see them apprehended and brought back to face the results of what they have done? I really cannot tell how. I feel about that. Sometimes I think that nothing could be too severe and too harsh for them, and at other times I do not care even to think about them. I have enough now to think about myself, and Mr. Tarbox is no longer to have any part in my thoughts—I will not permit myself to think of him at all."

MRS. BELMONT GIVES ARMORY FOR SUFFRAGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Not content with opening Marble House at Newport for suffragist lectures and giving the National Woman's Suffrage Association luxurious headquarters on Fifth avenue, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont has announced that she is building an addition, to be called The Armory, an exact reproduction of a room in the late Mr. Belmont's house, Belcourt, at Newport, in her new house at No. 477 Madison avenue, which is to be devoted to the cause this Winter. This new house is now nearing completion, the architect promising that it will be ready for occupancy on the first of January.

"My enthusiasm for suffrage grows all the time," said Mrs. Belmont to-day. "Every one of my children is sympathetic with me in regard to the work. Of course, it would be impossible for the Duchess of Marlborough to be an active suffragist, but she believes in the idea. Two of my sons—W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Harold Vanderbilt—have promised to sit on the platform at the public lectures which will be given at Marble House in Newport on August 24 and 28.

"I have studied the question of suffrage in England thoroughly," continued Mrs. Belmont. "I have talked with Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter, and I have been to innumerable meetings, and I am convinced that more militant methods must be adopted in this country if we hope to succeed. I do not think it is necessary to go so far as the English suffragettes have gone, but I do think that we shall have to struggle to gain what we want. I most emphatically believe in street meetings for one thing."

VANDERBILT IS SILENT ON RUIZ

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Alfred G. Vanderbilt arrived to-day on the Cunard liner Lusitania from England, where he has been houseboating and running his coaches from London to Brighton. On his trip over he appeared morose, according to other passengers, and never spoke except to communicate to his party. He still seemed under the shadow of the Ruiz affair, but refused to say anything about Mrs. Ruiz or her suicide. Once when asked point blank about the woman with whom his name was linked, he replied, "I know nothing about the affair." Otherwise his answers were monosyllabic.

Vanderbilt was accompanied by E. Vonder der Horst Koch and the latter's wife and child. On the liner Lusitania also were Mrs. Whitelaw Reid and her father, D. O. Mills.

After the liner had been docked some time Mr. Vanderbilt received the newspaper men.

"My coaching this season has been very successful and I am going back next year. I sold twenty-five of my horses but will bring back forty to America. I have also brought with me two fine Shetland ponies, very valuable, which I will exhibit at the show. I have two fine horses, Queen Favor and Queen Maid, which I will exhibit at Newport and New York."

Mr. Vanderbilt attended a meeting of the directors of the National Horse Show Association, of which he is president, this afternoon.

CLERKS HAVE GALA DAY AT WONDERLAND

The grocers' and provision clerks of Lynn held their annual outing at Wonderland Park yesterday with their friends, fully 10,000 strong. All were greatly interested in the great "Cinderella" show presented at 3:30 and 8:30. Preceding the outdoor production is the "Cinderella" parade, a delightful spectacle, with Prince Charming and Cinderella riding in the chariot drawn by seven fairies. The performers march all around the board walk and enter upon the stage in variegated costuming.

The Wonderland shows are all at their best, and when the 10,000 members of the Sunday American Outing Club arrive next Monday and Tuesday, with free tickets worth 50 cents clipped from the Sunday paper they will find some excellent features than ever to admire.

SCIENCE AND ADVENTURE are combined in the great article in the SUNDAY AMERICAN by the leaders of the five greatest expeditions to find the North Pole.

'400' FROWN ON 'IMPOSTER'

NEWPORT, Aug. 13.—More than a dozen of the foremost society women of the Newport Summer colony would like to know whether "Mr. Webster, of Washington," is the cleverest social impostor in the country or whether he is a foreign nobleman, incognito, or wether he is merely insane.

Among these ladies are Mrs. Clarence Pell, into whose reception room he bought a week ago, during the height of a most formal function, and Mrs. H. McKay Twombly, in whose mansion Mr. Webster created a furore and displayed such frightful madness that he had to be ejected by the butler.

"You may not remember Mr. Webster of Washington now" he said, departing, "but you will remember me later on."

SAILOR AND LEWIS TRAIN HARD FOR BOUT

By TAD.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—If they were to battle for the championship of the world, neither Willie Lewis nor Sailor Burke could be in better shape for their affair to-night at the Fairmount Club.

That's one thing that we are sure won't be a frame up. You know how a cat loves a dog, how oil and water won't mix, how one leading lady loves another. Well, that isn't a circumstance to the love that Burke holds for Lewis and vice versa.

Here's one bout that'll be the cake. Fight fans say that both have brave hearts, but cowardly legs. They say lots of other things, too, but you can bet a million dollars that neither will duck a punch come Friday night until its real. Why, for either one of them to be knocked out by the other for the count would kill the loser. There's both ends, sure as anything. They don't see any chance to lose, and as for the fight itself, it would resemble one between two Cleos. They'll both take the gaff.

Don't fall for that quitter stuff. Both are extremely careful against superior fighters, but they take it. After his fight with Johnson, Burke laughed and our man was almost torn from his head and a rip in his stomach that resembled a kiddy cut. He was down eighteen times, but he stuck, but though he never figured a win out, he was there at the end.

Willie Lewis has had his knocks, too, but he is the master of the time, don't he.

There's more talk of this fight around town than you've had in months and months. It's a bout between two local lads, and the crowd hates either one or the other. Half the mob are going to see Burke trimmed, while the others are going to see Lewis shown up. So far Burke is the favorite. Three out of every five pick the tar to win, and the chances are that he will enter the ring a ten to seven.

By defeating Lewis, Burke will put himself in line for another bout with Billy Papke, a match that Lewis has been after since his return from Paris. This winner will surely meet Papke, as has been assured by Billy Gibson, who has the consent of the Kewaunee lad. Tonight's battle will be one for blood, and when the men once start there is sure to be knockout punches flying in all directions.

TIM HURST FIRED FROM MAJOR LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Ban Johnson, president of the American League, announced tonight that he had dropped Tim Hurst, famous umpire and referee, from his staff of arbitrators. In Hurst's stead Mike Thompson, one of the most famous football referees, has been signed, and will take up his duties immediately. Thompson will sign his contract tomorrow for $5400 per month.

Hurst's recent escapade when he spat in the face of Eddie Collins of the Athletics, for which Hurst was indefinitely suspended, decided President Johnson that a change in his staff was necessary.

Mike Thompson, who takes Hurst's place, is well known all over the country. He was for four years identified with athletics at Georgetown University, and after that there became one of the best known football referees in the country. Thompson is a graduate of Georgetown and at present is a member of the faculty of Washington College at Chestertown, Md.

For the next two weeks he will work with Jack Sheridan, the American League summer umpire.

MOB UMPIRE IN PAWTUCKET

PAWTUCKET, Aug. 13.—Fans who attended the game between the Brockton and Lindsay-Trinity teams in the Intercity League series, started a rough house by swarming on the field and mobbing Umpire Cotter, whose decisions they became enraged at.

In the fourth inning, when Coller made a close decision at the plate contrary to the way the fans saw it, they rushed on the field. One of the players struck at the umpire, who tore off his mask and retaliated, the action nearly causing a riot.

A cool headed spectator telephoned the police and a band of reserves arrived in time to avert serious trouble and the game proceeded.

BIG INTER-CITY GAME TO-MORROW

"Jim" Dunlap, heavy Greater Boston baseman, will show diamond fans at the old South End Grounds Saturday, August 14, for Houghton & Dutton, what a big boy can do against the crack John Wanamaker team, champion of the New York Dry Goods League. Dunlap, a finger of the old John Clarkson, is due to win the little laurels against the pride of 242 Orb lin for Houghton & Dutton.

TYPO BALL TEAM INVADES THE WEST

The team that is to represent Boston and battle to repeat its win of the "typo" championship of the country, left last night for Chicago, where tomorrow it begins the series that will determine the "cubs" of the "typo" world. That the team will not lack for support could be seen as the train pulled out for the Windy City, for, besides the twelve members of the team, about sixty of the most ardent rooters in the printing world went along. During their stay in Chicago the visiting teams will be royally entertained by the home crowd with receptions, auto trips, moonlight excursions, banquets, and a good deal more. Among the delegation that left last night were practically all the officers of the local organization, including President McPhail, Treasurer McLaughlin, Secretary Guerin, Delegate Fairplough and Manager "Jimmie" Butler.

COCHATO FAST YEARLINGS

A letter received by George Leavitt from Lexington, Ky., states that Trainer H. C. Moody has worked a yearling pacer to a record of a mile in 2:29¾, with last quarter in :36 seconds. Also two yearlings by Cochato trotted eighths in 17½ and 18½ seconds.

GOLF GOSSIP NEWS OF THE LINKS

The United States amateur golfers are all putting in their hardest practice this month in preparation for the national amateur championship meeting at the Wheaton, Ill., links, September 6 to 11. Mr. Robert C. Watson, secretary of the United States Golf Association, has been sending broadcast the programme for the meeting and the entries closed with him on August 30. The conditions governing the play are the same as those which prevailed last year—that is, 18 holes medal play, 36 holes qualifying round to be played the first day with the next 64 scores in counting on the second 18 holes. Tuesday morning, September 7, the leading 32 scores for the two rounds will meet in match play at 18 holes. After the first round, however, the matches will all be at 36 holes.

Open tournaments have been held in abundance this Summer, and a good chance has been given everybody to take home a cup, but, strange to say, the prize winners seem to hang in a pretty close group. In the Massachusetts Golf Association, the Wollaston Golf Club was the first to hold an open event, which started on May 5 and ran four days, the meeting being followed by the Country Club's tourney and up to the present date there have been sixteen open tournaments, fifteen of which were of Massachusetts Golf Association clubs, beginning with next Saturday and finishing up in October with the three-day meeting of the Oakley Country Club, the amateur golfers have seventeen open tournaments at disposal of. All of these are within access of the suburban golfer and leave plenty of opportunity for the unlucky ones thus far to make up for lost time.

President Taft is doing a great deal for golf by his ardent support of the game for few people realized or knew what the game was before the head of the land first began playing, but since that time golf has risen considerably as an important sport, and one that deserved not only the attention of the newspapers but of the people at large, and slowly but surely the game will get its just deserts, thanks to the President and all the other devotees of the game.

The Brae-Burn Country Club is one of the few clubs to schedule events all through the Spring as well as in the Spring and Fall. On next Wednesday the club has secured Pitcher Perrolt, a left-hander. Perrolt is now with the Aberdeen, Wash., Club in the Northwestern League.

Detroit paid about $4,000 for Perrolt. According to reports the young south-paw is one of the best men seen on the mound in the Northwest.

The Detroit club has also secured two first baseman and the other a third baseman. The first baseman is Joe Miller, now playing with Madison in the Wisconsin-Illinois League, and the new third baseman is Murch, now with Brockton.

WANT SATURDAY GAME.

The Merlins of Roslindale want a game for Saturday, August 14, at home, with semi-pro, or strong amateur team. A. W. Grimwood, No. 31 Hewlett street, Roslindale.

SONDERS NOW HAVE CLASS IN RACES

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 13.—With the settlement yesterday of the inter-city dory races between boats of the Portland Yacht Club and the Massachusetts Bay Dory Racing Association, the general interest in the racing of the yachts in the Corinthian Yacht Club's regatta narrowed down to the work of the sonders and Lee big boats.

Seldom before has so many fast yachts been racing in these waters, and if it were not for the fact that the sonders are in the limelight, owing to the International races to be sailed on August 30, between the German boats from Keil and the three American boats yet to be selected, the work of the larger yachts would be of greater interest. The racing of the sonders is yet a mixed up mess, and never before has the committee or the Eastern Yacht Club had such a hard test as to determine what heavy weather, light weather and medium weather boats shall be selected to wear the Stars and Stripes.

The work of Onda II. in leading the Winona and Thunder across the finish line in the 21-foot rating class is the surprise of the day and the work of the boat will be carefully followed in her races later.

Both water and weather conditions are holding out for the yachtsmen want as it gives racing all kinds of weather and eliminates the boats which are good winners only in either heavy or light sailing.

AILEEN WILSON IS CHOICE FOR FREE-FOR-ALL

RACE TRACK, NORTH RANDALL, O., Aug. 13.—Getaway day of the Grand Circuit meeting here has a feature that is attracting a whole lot of notice from the regulars, which is Ramey Maxey riding Country Jay, 2:07¾, to lower the world's saddle record for a trotter now held by Charley Mack of 2:08¾, when he was ridden by C. K. G. Billings as the Glenville track in 1904. The opinion prevails that Country Jay has the ability to become the champion at that way of going.

The other events for to-day are the free-for-all pace, 2:00 and 2:15 trots and the 2:17 pace. In the fast class the Boston entry, Aileen Wilson, appears to have the class of the field in which are Chatsion and the Gardener.

The Harvester, if he has fully recovered from his recent illness, should carry off the 2:09 trot, though in the mare 15 Uhlerseas he may strike trouble, especially should the latter succeed in getting off in front—a dying start, as it were.

The Patchen will be a big choice for the 2:17 pace. He cannot do any loafing, however, as "Longshot" Cox reports that The Boson is improving rapidly these days, while another of the Billings stable, King Cole, is considered well up to making a strong fight. The 2:17 trot looks pretty cheap on paper, but all know what horse racing is, so it is possible the event may be better than it looks.

Hamburg Belle and Uhlan will make a good race this fall when the two start together. Uhlan by taking the mark of 2:03¾, is now in a class by himself. Belle has been reasoned by trainers for giving his horse such a fright that it has failed to give the gelding a chance to show his real speed.

UMPIRE TIM HURST DEPOSED BY BAN JOHNSON

'FIGHT UNLESS I DIE,' INSISTS JIM JEFFRIES

JEFF MISINFORMED, EXPLAINS BERGER

Sam Berger, in Chicago to-day, telegraphed the following statement regarding Jeffries's reported repudiation of the Johnson fight agreement:

Reference to the story published that Jeffries repudiates preliminary fight agreement signed by me must be the result of misunderstanding. His instructions were to proceed with the fight arrangements as far as possible, delaying the signing of the final articles until his return. He has evidently been informed that the final articles were signed and had not received my cablegram explaining details. I will do nothing further until I receive his answer, but I have no doubt that everything will be satisfactory.

SAM BERGER.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 13.—James Jeffries got a wrong idea from the cables as to the agreement signed by Sam Berger in Chicago with Jack Johnson. He thought that the public had the impression that final articles had been signed, and denied this on landing here. At the same time he declared most emphatically that the fight was a certainty.

"No one has any right to make such arrangements in my absence," said Jeff, who had on board the steamship George Washington that, according to cables from New York, he was signed.

After thus expressing himself, Jeffries was asked:

"Then perhaps the match may not come off?"

"May not come off?" he shouted. "Yes, it will. It surely will come off if I have anything to do with it. We will fight unless one of us dies. I simply just don't believe that articles have been finally signed or I would have heard about it by wireless or somehow."

"When do you think the fight will take place?"

"Oh," he replied, "that is one of the things that yet has to be settled as to the exact time. It may be in six months' time or possibly somewhat earlier or a little later. Fight we shall, however, and the sooner the better. Now do I care where we fight, though I naturally would prefer America. Still, it may be in England or in Australia, and I don't care whether it will be twenty rounds or 100 rounds, or any other number. I now weigh 235 pounds stripped and expect to get a little more off.

"But let no one run away with any notion that I am not in good condition now. Perhaps I am not in the pink of condition, but for the last five months I have been working regularly both privately and in sparring exhibitions and have done a fair piece of serviceable work than most persons have any notion of.

"Any rate, I am ready to back myself for $10,000 and Australian Hymes is welcome to bet $20,000 on me."

Jeffries seemed annoyed as well as surprised at the reports that final arrangements had been made without his name being obtained; but he confined his voyage to Cherbourg en route to Marlenbad where he will take six weeks' treatment prior to his going into regular training for the battle.

AUSTRALIAN OUT WITH $50,000 BID FOR BIG BATTLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The first man to go for the Jeffries-Johnson fight since the signing of articles is Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, who pulled off the Johnson-Burns battle. McIntosh accompanied by his wife, arrived here today on the Cunarder Lusitania.

"I am ready $50,000 for the fight," he said. "My offer has been in Sam Berger's hands for four months, and I am now about to renew negotiations. If Jeffries isn't in perfect trim, I think he'll be beaten. The fight will be held in London, preferably. I get it, and if not there in Australia. The United States is the last chance. The only place it could be made a success is in California, and I shouldn't like to encroach on the territory of Jim Coffroth, the California promoter, who handles most of the big scraps there."

McIntosh returns to England on August 25 and on October 4 sails for Australia with Bob Fitzsimmons, who has a contract for twenty weeks on the stage with him.

Signing the Agreement for the Jeff-Johnson Fight

This is not how Sam Berger, the youthful strategist, who acted as representative of James J. Jeffries; Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion, and his backer, George Little, looked in the meeting in Chicago, where provisional articles to fight were signed. This picture was taken at a time when the three were in a deadlock over the naming of an official stakeholder, which was overcome by Harry H. Frazee, who suggested that Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, be selected, and the name went quickly with both men. Since then Comiskey has declined to serve.

BOXING BITS OF NEWS

What is going to happen to that Langford-Ketchel match? It appears that Britt and Ketchel are still in the mountains climbing trees, while Langford is working like a dozen. Ketchel will surely have to do some fast work in the next few weeks if he expects to get Langford up to the scratch for a match. Ketels said repeatedly that he would take Langford any time in preference to Papke.

Monte Attell will meet Percy Coss in a twenty-round battle as a preliminary to the Britt-Frazee fight August 26.

Jimmy Dime, who has charge of the National Club of Pittsburg, is going after big bouts in the future, and will take offers to Nelson and Ketchel or any of the big drawing cards when suitable opponents can be found. Wagner and Tommy Murphy will be the next card.

* * *

A company of sporting men have offered Johnny Thompson and Jack McFarland a guarantee for a ten-round bout to take place in a little town about an hour's ride from Chicago. The Windy City sports are certainly hungering for a mix-up.

Jimmy Coffroth wants McFarland to meet Ad Wolgast on September 6 at his Colma Club. Wolgast is willing to take Packey if the latter will make 133 three hours before the fight. That would be foolhardy. Wolgast is a little fellow, and Packey signed a notice Packey would not attempt to put the fight back until he took on six or seven pounds. That would be a wise thing for Ad to do. He started at 126, and if he can get back to that figure he will be in the best of shape. Perhaps Packey will think that a little of the same thing would be wise for him, as he couldn't think that a fair chance to slaughter the contestants of the entire army of fighters.

Mahlon Hogan is down and out with sickness, and there is to be a monster benefit given him at White Sox Park in Chicago on August 30. All the boxers in the big town offered their services, but the local boys got first and the show would have to go on without them. The plan is to send Hogan West, to endeavor to bolster up his constitution.

* * *

Jack Johnson is about as popular in Kalamazoo, Mich., as a man with the smallpox. He couldn't get accommodations in the first-class hotels in the city.

Tommy McCarey, of Los Angeles, says he has 400 men who will give him $100 apiece for ringside seats at the Jeffries-Johnson fight, if it EVER comes off. Sounds like a matter of $40,000. he has a number of business men who will contribute $2,000 a piece if the fight can be settled in that town. McCarey claims that he will make his bid so high as to get cited that no one will dare attempt to beat the match.

MELLODY TO MEET ROLFE AT ARMORY

Honey Mellody vs. Billy Rolfe; Matty Baldwin vs. Johnny Lynch; Young Jack Johnson vs. Larry Conley. That's the bill of the opening show of the Armory A. A., which comes August 24, making 30 rounds of boxing scheduled.

Mellody and Rolfe lead off with twelve rounds. Young Langdery of Philadelphia was originally scheduled to meet Honey, but could not come and the change to Rolfe is thought to be far better, as all the local fans know what a game fighter Rolfe has proved to be.

Baldwin will have in Johnny Lynch a boy as clever as himself and one who can hit harder so their twelve-round spell should be entertaining.

The latest announcement that Young Jack Johnson, the colored champion of the West End, is to appear creates approval. He meets a hard customer in Conley, the South Boston welterweight, for six rounds.

JACK M'KERRON WINS BIG TROT

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 13.—Jack McKerron, owned by Wilson B. Chisholm, driven by Bert Shank, and trained by J. E. French, all of Cleveland, won the Fasig stake for 2.19 class trotters, the money event of the programme at North Randal. The race was one of the prettiest contests of the meeting and was also one of the most popular victories. Jack McKerron was not the favorite for the race, the latest having pinned its faith to Ed Geers's Made No But Shank had the horse in perfect form, and he performed in a perfect manner and carried off the race in three straight heats.

STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

FINK ROOLES IS A GOOD PITCHER

Do you know Pink? He's that young rawiter who surmounted the monument base in the center of the diamond yesterday after Uncle Cy Young had been driven to the tall and uncut. Pink is a good pitcher because he has control, and Christy Mathewson declares that he is the most important requisite.

Pink and several of the other Cleveland players were at Revere Beach last night, and they all took turns at throwing balls at a gentleman of the African persuasion who pokes his head through a hole in the canvas. Pink had three balls called on him, when he tightened up and turned on some speed.

The next three were strikes and while the umpire refused to call that misguided dingo out, Pink's speed almost sent him to the hospital. Jimmy Burns, the club's mascot, who by the way, appears to be going badly just now, suggested that Pink try it with a regulation baseball, which the youngster happened to have in his pocket. Turning a reproachful eye on Jimmy, Pink said:

"Jimmy, you shouldn't suggest anything like that. It would be cruel and inhuman to hit that poor nigs b with a real hose ball. I live in Louisiana and have always had the right kind of a feeling for the down trodden black brothers. You hurry down to the beach and bring me a nice round rock, about the size of a baseball. That'll do better."

Neal Ball was a little wild, but he practiced in the Pit and believes he has greatly improved his batting eye, while Bill Hinchman took a course in arm development.

WOULDN'T THIS ONE MAKE YOU

join the church? I have been requested by the manager of a bunch of wowlers to issue a challenge for a game of baseball. I'll print his letter, but would be glad to know more about the outfit and just how they manage to get out of stirring enough to play. Also whether the members of the team are selected from the different branches of the profession. The whole bunch ought to be good base stealers, and a smooth-working clip should do well as a pitcher, with a fence at the receiving end. A fleet-footed mail-buzzer might head the batting list, with a heavy handed lush-roller in the clean-up position. Porch climbers and second-story men would do in the outfield, and I think a pete man would do well at first. I would put stick-up men on second and at short and a night prowler at third, so he could take care of the fouls that came over his way. Then, with a couple of shover cop men on the coaching lines, the team ought to be able to make a clean-up. By the way, a team like this probably takes naturally to the diamond. Here is the challenge, and if you're not scared off already, come along:

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear sir—The costers' 109 baseball team would like to arrange a game of ball for Friday afternoon with some strong team.

Yours,

GEORGE E. DILLON,
Manager B. B. Club.

Grand Opera House.

WONDER WHAT KIND OF INSTRUCtions Jeffries left behind him that he could come to bat so promptly and positively with a denial that a match had been made between him and Johnson. I supposed that Sam Berger was left at home to look after Jeff's interest and try to force the black champion into signing up. However, Jeff says nothing doing, and I suppose he ought to know. Can it be that the Sam has bobbled over and pulled off another fiasco? He that one he sprung in Montreal, which was to have caused us to come out into the open. Sammy never was much of a fighter, but when it comes to conversation made up refreshingly of words, mights few of even the best fighters have anything on him.

*Slang for mussing things up.

Straight Dope, Boston American:

Dear sir—Please tell me of a good boxing instructor, where I can take lessons cheap. Also inform me what is the average price for lessons. Hoping to get an early reply in your sporting column.

Yours truly,

J. J. DIX.

Dorchester, August 12, 1909.

There are several good boxing instructors in Boston. Steve O'Donnell, No. 8 Eas; Concord street, will treat you right. I am unable to inform you as to what it will cost you.

NOW ALL YOU RISING YOUNG ATHletes who are handy with the willow and can wallop out the doubles and triples with a few home runs mixed in, get loud and get busy with the pencil and pencil and let the boss of the Quincy Club, Old Colony League, get your names. Here is a note I have received:

Straight Dope, Boston American:

The Quincy Old Colony baseball team wants a fast and heavy hitting outfielder. Write to the club or telephone Quincy 21868.

HAMBURG BELLE TO RACE UHLAN

CLEVELAND, Aug. 13.—A. J. Welch owner of Readville race track, has about completed terms whereby Hamburg Belle, 2.02¾, and Uhlan, 2.03¾, will race for the trotting championship at Readville.

This big event, he plans, will take place the week of Aug. 23, which precedes the grand circuit at that place. There being a vacant week between the Buffalo and Readville meetings, Welch is to offer $7000 purses for three days to keep the horsemen busy and in the East as otherwise many were forming plans to ship back to the Great Western circuit.

OVER FIFTY HORSES IN FELLSWAY RACES

With over fifty well-matched trotters and pacers entered in the ten races offered by the Fellsway Driving Club for to-morrow afternoon at Combination Park, Medford, the county promises the best card of the season in the matinees. In the feature pacing class Edith R. will have the opportunity of again showing her mettle if she succeeds in heading the summary. A new factor in this race is Belle Sherwood, a mare of undoubted speed.

Another event of hard pitching has Ginger B., Bonnie Belle, General Fiske, Guy F. and Billy Rainford down to take the word. Trombone J. Boy of the circle has announced in no uncertain manner that there will surely be something doing if he doesn't win with his mare Ginger B., but it is likely he forgot how badly owners of other horses in the race desire accomplishing the same trick as himself.

The club announces two professional races for fellow Dry with the amateur classes, which are for the 2.19 and 2.30 pacers, all factors evening a handicap of three seconds in entering. The purses are $200 in each event, and are quite liberal for a five.

BOSTON AMERICANS DOUBLE

One Method of Ridding Earth Of Criminals

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

A VERY great step in the march of progress has been made in Indiana, and is almost made in Connecticut by the passing of the Tomlinson bill (with a vote of 130 to 28) in the House. Now it depends upon the staff of mental development of the Senate to make this bill a law.

Referring to it, the New Haven State Register says:

"This bill, which has been before this referred to in these columns, provides that the directors of the State prison and the State hospitals for the insane may, on the recommendation of two skilled surgeons, appointed for the purpose of examining inmates to this end, order the performance on the patient of the operation of vasectomy or oophorectomy.

"The effect of these operations is to sterilize the man or woman on whom they are performed. The operations are without danger, without much inconvenience to the subject, and wholly without these injurious effects or change of nature which follow sterilization by the methods formerly used.

"The simple effect of such a law would be an absolute check to the production of degenerates, so far as it operated. It may be said that the law is in operation in Indiana, and with success. It has not been objected to on the part of even the subjects of it.

"And that it does work its purpose in preventing the addition to the criminal, insane, feeble-minded, idiotic and imbecile population of the State there is no room for doubt.

"This is a matter on which the members of the Senate and the Governor should inform themselves. So should all the intelligent people of the State, that there may be, as there should be, a strong public sentiment in support of the passage of such a law."

Great Agent for Good

Nothing could be done, with all the combined billions of all the millionaires, directed by all the churches and reformatory organizations of earth, which would help the world along to morality, health and wholesomeness, like the passing and enforcing of this bill all over the world.

From one degenerate woman descended two hundred criminals in three generations in the State of New York.

From one woman, suffering with tuberculosis when she married, sixteen weak, diseased people came to spend a brief and miserable time on earth in two generations.

Such instances can be related by the thousand, and our jails, prisons, hospitals and insane asylums are filled with the unhappy descendants of people who should no more be allowed to propagate their species than should poison ivy be cultivated.

There is power vested in man to stop the mating of the diseased, the mentally unfit or the criminally inclined. Only when the criminal intention becomes crystallized in a criminal act, and the offender is under lock and key, is he prevented from marrying or cohabiting without marriage. Then after his term of prison punishment ends he goes forth to propagate his species.

The new law does not prevent him from marriage. It does not prevent him from association with the opposite sex; but it does, thanks to the progress of medical science, prevent him from producing offspring.

Crime Would Be Eliminated.

This sterilizing process should be performed on every man and woman, who has, for even a brief period of time, been insane; on every one who is for a second time an inmate of a prison or reformatory; on every victim of tuberculosis or leprosy, or of any virulent disease known to medical science by unpleasant names; and on every man and woman who uses drugs or stimulants constantly.

Could such a law be enforced in the whole United States, less than four generations would eliminate nine-tenths of the crime, insanity and sickness of the present generation in our land. Asylums, prisons and hospitals would decrease, and the problems of the unemployed, the indigent old, and the hopelessly degenerate would cease to trouble civilization.

In the breeding of horses and cattle, the survival of the fittest, only, is made possible; and the human race should be protected in the same manner from the perpetuation of undesirable and dangerous tendencies and qualities.

It is to be hoped that this law will pass, and be enforced in Connecticut; and that it will become universal.

Not only should it be applied to the insane and the criminal, but every man and woman who desires to enter the state of marriage should be obliged to pass a medical examination, and if not physically or mentally whole, they should be given their marriage license only after being sterilized.

But at all events, let the criminal and the insane be prevented from increasing the misery of the world by adding to its population.

Prevention is better than cure of crime and disease.

Give your aid to the law that would prevent these misfortunes.

BECAUSE I may not enter the Dream
City of the Soul
I will not spurn the village which must
henceforth bear my feet;
Because the sky-grown blossoms have withheld from me their toll
I will not crush the flowers which make
this earth so sweet;
Because one bliss evades my grasp, across
the league of years,
And Life, with hope unstayed, fails fu-

Because I may not pass, but must hold on,

My heart is free to all without the gates,

"Make Hay While the Sun Shines"—By Nell Brinkley

"He rules his court that tags him around, laughs at his bum jokes and pets and adores him, in the Summer time when men are scarce."

IT'S "pie" for a man—this tucking-away business in some corner of the hills or the edge of the sea in the Summertime.

Doesn't seem to matter whether he's the apple of the girls' eyes through the rest of the year in town. His nose might be a wad of gum and his feet like mice and he might even have a drooping mustache; and he's a Rajah from India for the court that tags him around and laughs at his bum jokes and listens to his holdings-forth and pets and adores him.

Course it's just because he's a man with his hair and a linen collar and trousers.

But it doesn't matter why. It's pie for him 'ist the same.

And a man—a real man, the long, slim variety with a brown face and good shoulders and big feet! There's nothing to it. But he'd better "make hay while the sun shines."

It's the dinkey man's chance of his life. And even the heart-breaker gets lost in the shuffle sometimes in the Wintertime in town—for the girls hold their chins a little higher and they forget easier and longer then, for when a kid has his fists full of cake he doesn't swing on another little boy's gate and look hungry.

The Signs of Love

He's in Love When He Caters to a Girl's Whims and Fancies and Hustles to Get Enough to Marry On

By Dorothy Dix

IT is harder for a girl to tell whether a man is really in love with her than it is for him to tell whether she is in love with him, because not only were men deceivers ever, but two signs of devotion that should be her guides are such broken reeds that no woman who has cut her wisdom teeth ever dreams of leaning upon them.

The first of these signs of apparent affection is the frequency with which a man visits a girl, and the attentions he shows her. Upon its face this would appear to be an infallible barometer of the state of his heart, but it is not.

A man may go to see a girl half a dozen times a week because he is madly infatuated with her, or merely because she has comfortable chairs, or is entertaining to talk to, or she has a knack of making mixed drinks, or simply because he has nowhere else to go, or has just gotten into the habit of going to her house.

Also a man who is not in love with a girl, and never pretends to be, frequently continually seeks her society and pays her what appears to be the most devoted attention, for no other reason than because she is handsome and wears fine clothes and jewels, and he likes to be seen out with a stunning looking woman who makes other people rubber. Therefore, by the number of his visits no woman can estimate a man's feelings toward her.

Words No Criterion

Nor can she by his words alone. Many men talk love to every woman they meet just as they always chuck a baby under the chin. Many other men, especially if they have large, soulful eyes, fancy themselves as understudies of Romeo, and they swear devotion to any woman that is handy because they like to hear themselves make love. So, unless a man outand-out pops the question and names the wedding day, a woman is not justified in regarding a man's soft talk as anything but just a mere pleasantry to pass away the time.

Indeed, a first crude test of a man's real sentiments is to be found in the way he makes love, and the more blunderingly he does it the more seriously it is to be taken. The man who can remember to quote appropriate poetry, and say beautiful things, and to imprint a passionate kiss square and fair on a girl's lips, has had too much experience, and is merely amusing himself. It isn't vital to him how the girl takes it. But he who gurgles and chokes on his Adam's apple when he comes to asking the one woman in the world to him to be his, and whose kiss hits the rim of her ear, or her back hair, means business and is playing for his life.

Probably the first unconscious indication that a man shows to a girl that he has been winged by the little god of love is when he begins to take an interest in her diet and clothes. As long as a man is merely entertaining himself with a young woman, it is immaterial to him what she eats and how she dresses. He will sit up with perfect unconcern and let her order lobster salad and ice cream for supper after the theatre, and he will even flatter her for having a waist that can be spanned by a dog collar. He isn't expecting to have to pay her future doctor bills.

Remembers Little Likes

Let him fall in love with her and look upon her as a future wife, and all of this changes in the twinkling of an eye. Then he begins to urge roast beef upon her, and to be solicitous about whether she is wrapped up enough of a cold night, and has on thick enough shoes. Hence, when a young man begins to inveigh against lingerie waists in Winter, and to develop a personal animosity toward the corset, she can figure it out that she can have him any time she wants him.

Another proof of love is when a man begins to remember a girl's little tastes and whims; when he doesn't just send her flowers, but the particular flower that is her favorite, and when he buys for her not some expensive and conventional gift, but takes the trouble to hunt up some trifle for which she has casually expressed a desire.

Of course there are a few men of exquisite sensibilities where womankind is concerned who always show this fine perception in dealing with women. From them it means nothing, but the majority of men are only prevented from blundering in dealing with women through the illumination of love.

A sign of love that is unmistakable is when a man is so concerned about a girl's health that he begins to treat a girl's family with consideration instead of as interlopers who have no business on the earth and no excuse for existence. If Augustus Adolphus will stand for papa's jokes, and actually encourage's mamma to tell of her troubles with servants; if he knows a remedy for asthmatic papa and goes out of his way to get it for Aunt Jane, and if he holds little sister on his knee and gives Bobby a quarter, it is time for the girl who inspires this frame of mind in Augustus Adolphus to decide whether she will marry under a floral horseshoe at home or in church with six bridesmaids in white tulle.

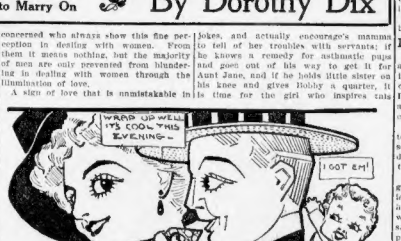
Industry Clinches It

The final clinching sign of love in a man, however, is whether he is willing to get out and work and hustle for a girl or not. If a man sees his teeth and rolls up his sleeves and goes at his job with a vim and energy that he never showed before; if he gets to work earlier and stays later, because every lick brings his sweetheart nearer to him, then he is giving visible manifestations of the sort of love to which any woman can pin her faith.

If a man isn't willing to work for a woman he doesn't love her. If he doesn't love to work for her he doesn't love her. This is the acid test that every woman may apply to a man's affection, and if the result is just a frizzle of fine words, with nothing much left underneath, she will be wise to pass up the article as spurious.

These are only a few of the many signs of love, but so far as they go they are guaranteed to work.

He may be seeking her society because she looks "classy," not because he loves her.



When a man becomes solicitous about a girl's health it's a sign that he is in love with her.

EASTERN HIGHBINDERS

AN ordinance just passed in Java falls heavily upon Chinese secret societies in the Dutch East Indies. A fine of 100 guilders or three months' ricorous imprisonment is the penalty for every Chinaman found in possession of secret society documents or emblems or caught wearing the distinguishing marks of these organizations.

Those who preside over the meetings of such societies, allow meetings to be held in their house, or fail to inform the authorities of such gatherings being held, incur similar penalties. The latter also fall upon Chinamen who recruit for these societies, supply them with money, or give them help in any way.

My Wife's Gone to the Country. Hurray! Hurray!

New Words to the Old Melody, By IRVING BERLIN. One of the Authors of the Original Song.

I.

BROWN went to have his palm read; the fortune teller maid
Looked at his hand and whispered: "You're unhappy, I'm afraid;
Your hand says you've been crying." Brown answered with surprise:
"I don't mean to insinuate, but then somebody lies."

CHORUS:
My wife's gone to the country—
Hurray—Hurray!
She thought it best—I need the rest—that's why she went away;
She took the children with her—
Hurray—Hurray!
I've worried long—that's right you're wrong—my wife's gone away.

II.

On night a daring burglar stole in the house by chance,
And Browney 'woke in time to see him going through his pants;

Brown broke the saucer, too.

The burglar saw what happened,
And ran for his dear life;
But Browney cried, "Don't be alarmed, I thought it was my wife."

CHORUS:
My wife's gone to the country—
Hurray—Hurray!
She thought it best—I need the rest—that's why she went away;
She took the children with her—
Hurray—Hurray!
Don't overlook the rolling pin—
My wife's gone away.

III.

Brown started washing dishes, one evening after supper—
And, natural for a man to do, he broke a china cup;
So's it would not be noticed, he broke the saucer too,
Then broke the news to Bridget, saying "This must fall on you."

CHORUS:
My wife's gone to the country—
Hurray—Hurray!
She thought it best—I need the rest—that's why she went away;
She took the children with her—
Hurray—Hurray!
I'd like to break up housekeeping
—My wife gone away.

The Bill Clerk Gets Tips on When to Quit

By KENNETT HARRIS

"IF you think it will make you sick not to know, I'll tell you," said the bill clerk. "I was sitting in a little game — Now, go ahead!"

"Dont be afraid that I'm going to blame you, sir boy," said the cashier. "Far be it from me to constitute myself your critic. I am only too well aware that I have faults of my own. Perhaps everybody wouldn't call them faults, but I do."

"You don't tell me!" said the bill clerk, with an air of surprise.

"And even if I accept the general verdict and admit that I am comparatively flawless, I can still remember the time that I was not," pursued the cashier. "I don't go so far as to say that I was as big a fool as you when I was your age, but I certainly can remember sitting in a little game myself. Let me see, what did we call it"

"Piddledy winks," suggested the bill clerk.

"No, I think it was old maid," said the cashier. "I have a dim remembrance of taking what I believed we called 'the pot' with one measly pair of trays on one occasion. I think I was much exhilarated by the circumstance. If my recollection is correct, I bought my wife another diamond with the booty."

There's a Time to Quit

"I was three dollars and sixty-five cents a head of the game at one time, last night," observed the bill clerk, gloomily.

"Too bad!" said the cashier, sympathetically. "Now, if you had only had the sense to quit right then."

"Oh, of course," said the bill clerk.

"That's what I do," the cashier declared. "When I feel I'm ahead. I cash in and quit, and when I notice that I'm running behind, I do the same thing. I believe in letting well enough alone."

"Rub it in," invited the bill clerk.

"It's for your own good," said the cashier. "I'm telling you in the hope that you may profit by my experience. Knowing when to quit is the secret of my success. I was run over by an express wagon once and——"

"Why didn't you get out of the way?" asked the bill clerk.

"That's what the driver wanted to know, only he mixed the brimstone lake and other irreverent topography in the form of his question. As a matter of fact, the accident was caused by his own reckless driving around the corner. I sued the company for damages, and a prejudiced, packed jury, possibly venal, judge decided against me in the face of all law and evidence. It was an absolute farce; everybody said so."

"Why didn't you appeal it, then?" asked the bill clerk.

"Because I knew when to quit," replied the cashier. "I thought I'd lost about enough. You'd have appealed and got your little old ten thousand—in about ten thousand years—mean'e. But on the other hand, the judge higher up might have been prejudiced, ignorant and, possibly, venal. You can't always tell about these judges, unless you happen to be one yourself. I've been life and have a pull, and even then you're likely to get let down once in a while."

"When would you quit a job?" asked the bill clerk.

Depends on Circumstances

"When they stopped paying me wages and objected to my coming on the premises. Then I should consider that I could call that ample justification. Also, if I were paid ten thousand a year and had an offer of twenty thousand from a rival concern."

"If you wait for that you'll be entitled to a pension and a gold medal for long service," said the bill clerk. "How many drinks do you think a fellow ought to take before he quits and goes home?"

"It's impossible to lay down any broad, general rule for that," replied the cashier. "It depends on who is waiting for him at home and his capacity. The safe way is to quit before you begin. With some women, if there's a breath of suspicion attached to you, it's as bad as your arrival in a hack. You aren't married, so of course that wouldn't apply to you.

"One thing, Johnny: If you're calling on a young woman and she yawns and looks at the clock every few or three minutes, you'll do well to quit right then. That's a piece of advice I suspect you need."

"Do you suppose you'll ever learn when to quit talking?" asked the bill clerk.

Who Will Capture the Chowder Prizes?

NEW ENGLAND'S best clam chowder, and how it is made, will be known on Sunday, when the judges announce their decision on John T. Hicks's request in the BOSTON AMERICAN that this paper find him a chowder "like mother used to make." Hicks offered $5 for the best recipe and the AMERICAN added $5 for the next best. The winners will be announced in the SUNDAY AMERICAN. Hundreds of replies were received and many of them—all different—were published. Those that were not published will receive as much consideration in the awards as those that were. Here are some of the best:

RHODE ISLAND CHOWDER.

This is a Rhode Island chowder by a veteran chowder maker. Take four quarts of potatoes, peel and slice into cold water; two quarts of onions, peel and slice into cold water; two quarts of clams in shell, open and save liquor, chop fine, and add a pound of salt pork, cut into dice and fry like an ordinary dinner pot, about ten-quart size, put in pork, fry out well, then skim out scraps, take onions out of pan, put them into hot fat, stirring until tender, but not brown, add a small teaspoon of black pepper, cook until onions are done, then add potatoes, chopped clams and quahaugs and liquor, add hot water to fill within two and one-half inches of top, a teaspoon of salt, boil up good, then let simmer two hours. Fifteen minutes before removing from fire, crumb up pilot crackers into it. Serve in dishes with pilot crackers.

THOMAS MYOTT.

No. 756 Manton avenue, Providence.

OLD-FASHIONED CHOWDER.

To make real old-fashioned chowder take one half peck of fresh clams, wash thoroughly, cover with boiling water and let stand fifteen minutes, then open with a small knife, saving the juice; remove the black part from the head and chop clams if desired. Cut three sliced medium of pork, fry out very gently, remove scraps from fat, add one quart of potatoes sliced very thin and half dozen onions cut small, add one quart of hot water, clam broth and scraps; when the potatoes are tender add clams and one quart of fresh milk. Do not boil longer than twenty minutes, or clams will be tough. Just before taking off, add one cup of rolled crackers, pepper and salt to taste and serve with oyster-tes.

MRS. A. M. LYON.

Wilmington, Mass.

PROUD OF HER CHOWDER.

I won't play second fiddle to anybody in making clam chowder. Take one quart of clams, one quarter pound of mixed pork, six medium sized potatoes, three onions, one quart of milk, four crackers, butter, salt and pepper. Cut pork very fine and put in kettle; when it is to be tried in, fry real crisp, but be careful it does not burn; have potatoes and onions sliced and when pork is done put them in and cover with hot water; let boil until potatoes are tender; add clams, salt and pepper and cook ten minutes; then put in the milk, roll crackers fine and sprinkle over, let it back to simmer for about twenty minutes and serve.

MRS. BESSIE BAND.

No. 273 Prince street, East Boston.

FRESH CLAMS ESSENTIAL.

First select the purest and freshest of clams. Pick over carefully, then wash in all badly broken shells, wash thoroughly in cold salted water; into a porcelain pan put one quart of clams, a very little water, and until about one-half done, and then shell, saving the juice. Take part of the clams, slice potatoes and onions thin, dividing the latter in the proportion of one large onion to a little water until about two-thirds done; fry slowly some of the pork in a porcelain pan, do not get too brown. Now put all the ingredients in layers into a porcelain lined pot, one pint of water, large, salt and pepper each layer, also put one or more large pilot crackers each buttered, between each layered buttered side down, one clam liquor, if not enough to cover, use some water. Bring slowly to a boil, boil slowly for a few minutes or until potatoes are nearly done. Now add a sufficient amount of milk which has been brought to a boil and flavor with both kinds of pepper and some salt; let boil very slowly for about five minutes, when move to the back on the range for ten or fifteen minutes or slightly cool and flavor itself. Just before serving add nice butter to the taste.

THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK

SYNOPSIS.

THE chief characters in "The Perfume of the Lady in Black" figured in "The Mystery of the Yellow Room," a detective story by Gaston Leroux, which was published serially in the BOSTON AMERICAN just prior to this story. Mlle. Mathilde Stangerson had been strangely attacked in her room, and Rouletabille, a young reporter, and Frederick Larsan, a noted Paris detective, were sent to investigate the mystery. Rouletabille proved that Larsen had made the attack because he was violently in love with Mlle. Stangerson.

When she was found after having been choked and after a pistol shot had been fired, it was necessary to break in the door of her room, yet her assailant was nowhere in sight and there were no means by which he could have escaped.

Rouletabille showed when Robert Darzac, the suitor of Mlle. Stangerson, was placed on trial, charged with having made the attack, that Mlle. Stangerson had found Larsan in her room, that he had tried to plead with her, and that he had then choked her. She did want her father to know of it, because she had, a number of years previously, eloped with Larsen; had found that he was a noted criminal known as Ballmeyer, and had left him.

To hide the affair, she locked herself in her room. Later she was seized with a nightmare and discharged a revolver near her bedside. This resulted in the breaking in of the door of The Yellow Room.

Mlle. Stangerson still maintained secrecy in order to hide the details of her escapade with Larsan, or Ballmeyer, from her father.

When Darzac was on trial, Rouletabille appeared in court, forced Larsen to flee and then revealed the solution of the mystery of The Yellow Room. Later Larsan was reported to have lost his life at sea.

In "The Perfume of the Lady in Black," Mlle. Stangerson married Robert Darzac. Rouletabille disappeared after the ceremony and the bride sent him a note. A man named Brignolles arouses the suspicions of the writer.

Rouletabille and Sainclair start to Tregor in pursuit of "The Perfume of the Lady in Black," and Rouletabille learns that the Lady in Black, whom he knew as his mother, is none other than Miss Darzac.

AS we entered the room Rouletabille uncovered his head with an appearance of respect and reverence which one rarely observes except in a sacred place. His face became flushed, he trembled with short sighs, rolling his travelling cap in his hands as if he were embarrassed. He turned to me and said in low tones—far lower than he used in the chapel:

"Oh, Sainclair, this is it—the parlor. Feel how my hands burn. My face is flushed, is it not? I was always flushed when I came here, knowing that I should find her. I used to run. I felt smothered—I do now. I was not able to wait. Oh, my heart beats just as it used when I was a little lad! How dear those meetings were. She was my mother, Sainclair. Oh, she never told me so; on the contrary, she used to say that my mother was dead, and that she had been her friend. But she told me to call her Mamma—and when she wept as I kissed her, I knew that she really was my mother. See—she always sat in the dark corner, and she came always at nightfall, when the parlor had not yet been lit up for the evening. And every time she came, she would place on the window sill a big, white package, tied with pink cord. It was a fruit cake. I have loved fruit cake ever since, Sainclair!"

The Perfume Revealed.

The poor lad could no longer contain himself. He rested his arms on the mantel and wept like a little child.

I saw him draw from his breast the letter which he had placed there in the train, and tear it open with trembling fingers. He read it slowly. Suddenly his hand fell, and he uttered a groan. His flushed face grew pallid—so pallid that it seemed as though every drop of blood had left his heart. I stepped toward him, but he waved me away and closed his eyes. He looked almost as though he were sleeping. I walked across the room, moving as softly as one does in the chamber of death. I looked up at the wall, where hung a heavy wooden crucifix. How long did I stand gazing on the cross? I have no idea. Nor do I know what set to summon belonging to the house, who came into the parlor.

I was pondering with all my strength of concentration on the strange and mysterious destiny of my friend—on this mysterious woman who might or might not have been his mother. Rouletabille had been so young in those school days. He longed so for a mother that he might have imagined that he had found one in his visitor. Rouletabille—what other name did we know him by?—Joseph Josephin. It was without doubt under that name that he had pursued his early studies here. Joseph Josephin, the queer appellation of which the editor of the Epoch had said to him: "It is no name at all!" And now, what was he about to do here? Seek the trace of a perfume? Revive a memory—an illusion? I turned as I heard him stir. He was standing erect and seemed quite calm. His features had taken on the serenity which comes from assurance of victory.

"We must go now, Sainclair. Come, my friend."

In the descent street, which we regained without meeting anyone, I stopped him by asking anxiously:

"Well—did you find the perfume of the Lady in Black?"

"Yes," he said, very gravely. "Yes, Sainclair, I found it."

Dead to All but Two.

And he handed me the letter from Professor Stangerson's daughter. Then he took my two hands and looked into my eyes.

"I am going to confide a secret to you, Sainclair—the secret of my life, and perhaps some day the secret of my death. Let what will come, it must die with you and me. Mathilde Stangerson had a child—a son. He is dead—is dead to everyone except to the two of us who stand here."

He paused, struck with horror under such a revelation. Rouletabille the son of Mathilde Stangerson! And then suddenly I received a still more violent shock. In that case, Rouletabille must be the son of Larsan.

"Oh, I understood now, all the wretchedness of the boy. I understood why he had said this morning: "Why did he not die? If he is living, I wish to God that I were dead!"

Rouletabille must have read my thoughts in my eyes, and he simply made a gesture which seemed to say, "And now you understand, Sainclair." Then he finished his sentence aloud. The word which he spoke was "silence!"

When we reached Paris we separated, to meet again at the train. There, Rouletabille handed me a new dispatch, which had come from Milenay, and which was signed by Professor Stangerson. It said, "M. Darzac tells me that you have arrived. Have you any news? I shall be glad if you unwold come and spend them with us. We will wait for you at Arthur Rance's house, where Mme. Rongier—he will be delighted to present you to his wife. My daughter will be pleased to see you. She joins me in kind greetings."

Just as the train was starting, a concierge from Rouletabille's hotel came rushing up and handed us a third dispatch. This one was sent from Mentone, and signed by Mathilde. It contained two words: "Rescue us."

CHAPTER IV.
En Route.

NOW I knew all. As we continued our journey, Rouletabille related to me the remarkable and adventurous story of his childhood, and I knew, also, why he dreaded nothing so much as that the journalist should penetrate the mystery which separated them. I dared say nothing more—give my friend no advice. Ah, the poor unfortunate lad! When I read the words "Rescue us," he carried the dispatch to his lips, and then, pressing my hand, he said: "If I arrive too late, I can avenge her, at least." I have never heard anything more filled with resolution than the cold determination of his tone.

While we journeyed toward Lyons, and Rouletabille lay dreaming, stretched out fully dressed in his berth, I will tell you how and why the child that he had been ran away from school at Eu, and what had happened to him.

Rouletabille had fled from the school like a thief. There was no need to seek for another expression, because he had been accused of stealing. This was how it happened.

At the age of nine he had already an extraordinarily precocious intelligence and could arrive easily at the solution of the most perplexing problems. By logical deductions of an almost amazing kind, he astonished his professor of mathematics by his philosophical method of work. He had never been able to learn his multiplication tables, and always counted upon his fingers.

He would usually get his answers to the problems himself, leaving the working out to be done by his fellow pupils, so one will have an idea of his task to a servant. But first, he would show them exactly how the example ought to be done. Although as yet ignorant of the rudiments of algebra, he had invented for his own personal use a system of golden curves on with queer signs, looking like hieroglyphics, by the aid of which he marked all the steps of his mathematical reasoning, and thus he was able to write down the general formulae so that he alone could interpret them. His professor was proudly to compare him to Pascal, discovering for himself without knowledge of geometry, the first propositions of Euclid.

Tramp's Song

By Catherine R. Verschoyle

(Translated from the German of Boerries von Munchausen.)

HARK! the calling of the roads in the whole country,
From Corpwali and from Ireland and the glittering sea;
From the Rhine and the ice-floes on Neva in the North—
At the calling of the roads I must wander forth.

I have tramped through the soles of several pairs of shoes,
But my heart's in the home my restless feet refuse;
I have tramped for seven years in sun and wind and rain,
The road knows my joy, and tells it and again.

On a juniper in Thule a thrush sings low;
I shall sone day win to Thule, as I found the land called Woe.
Of the rapture of my yearning the thrush sings sweet,
And all the roads cry "homewards" to my vagrant feet.

A Washington dispatch says that the two-dollar bill is unpopular and is to be retired. Up this way a two-dollar bill is twice as popular as a one-dollar bill, though not, of course, as much in demand as a five or ten.—Waterbury Republican.

TAFT IS BUSY FILLING CENSUS BERTHS TODAY

BEVERLY, Aug. 13.—"It will not be possible to settle the matter of appointing census supervisors to-day, and it may be necessary for us to have another interview with the President," said Secretary Charles Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor to a BOSTON AMERICAN man to-day. "We have things in such shape that a number of appointments can be made at once, and will be announced very soon, but returns from other districts are not all in yet. It may be a month before all 320 supervisors will be appointed."

Secretary Nagel, director of the Census Bureau, and Postmaster-General Hitchcock arrived here shortly before 3 o'clock in the motor car of James Waller of Beverly Farms. Their appointment with the President was for 3, and at this meeting they were to arrange the appointment of supervisors, one of the biggest pieces of patronage which this administration will have to distribute. Each supervisor will have the appointment of many hundreds of assistants and many millions will be spent in salaries.

Secretary Nagel has prepared a list and Hitchcock is on hand to go over it with regard to the effect of the appointments upon the political situation.

Hitchcock Returns Soon.

Secretary Hitchcock said:

"I shall return to Washington to-night and will remain there for some days. It is not true that I shall remain in Beverly for several weeks. I am too busy. I hope to be in Massachusetts more in the future than I have recently. It is my State, and I always come over to vote here."

"You might call me a Massachusetts man, too," said Secretary NaGel. "I have spent my Summers in Marion for several years, although my business and real home is in Missouri. I do not think your railroads here compare very well with the West. I know that I ride in comfort from St. Louis to Boston, and that while I go to the White Mountains I have to fight for a seat in a car on the Boston & Maine."

Praises Bay State.

"Although there are 320 appointments of supervisors throughout the country there will be only one in Massachusetts," said Mr. Durand. "That is because the Massachusetts bureau of statistics is so thoroughly competent that the government for several decades past has done little in this State excepting the State census which is taken every five years. If every State did the census work that is done by the State of Massachusetts, the work of taking a census would be very easy for the government."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS: FINANCIAL NEWS

LOCAL MARKET IS LESS ACTIVE

STATE STREET, Aug. 13.—There was a little less activity in the local stock market this forenoon and selling orders were a little more numerous, yet the market took the realizing sales well. The price has been a rapid one the past two or three days and a reaction would serve the market well. There was some offerings of arbitrage stocks for New York account, though declines were very slight outside of Amalgamated, which fell 1¼ points to 80½.

Room traders bid up American Pneumatic stocks slightly during the first hour, but did not meet with any response in the matter of buying orders. Union Pacific touched 213½ and the preferred 105, while in New York the preferred rose 0¾ points to 115 on receipt of the rumor that the issue was to be retired.

Lake Copper worked off 1½ from the session on profit taking, while North Butte spurted 2 to 61, with partial setback.

Hamilton Copper was the feature on the curb, as was expected it would be. Sales of this issue up to the noon hour must have aggregated over 150,000 shares at prices varying from 25 to 30 cents. The opening sale was at 27 cents. O'Neely had the selling end, while the buying was general. Davis Daly eased off close to 7. First National and Rhode Island Coal were both active and firm.

WALL ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

WALL STREET, New York, Aug. 13.—There is a good percentage of public buying, but careful canvass of the Street discloses that the hundred-share trader has not yet arrived on the scene. It is a peculiar market, with both extremes represented—big professionals and the big banking interests. The public that has stock in the market keeps within very large margins and cannot be shaken out or induced to take more than it is wise to purchase. Therefore, since there is no further advance in the market, with some active manipulation, before the commission can embark

The predicament of a pinning operator, on whose stock pyramid governors of the exchange turned the limelight, made it easier for the big people to check the set drive. The operator drove thousands of shares overboard as the result of suggestion that "something ought to be done on the curb, as was expected it would be. Sales of this issue up to the noon hour must have aggregated over 150,000 shares at prices varying from 25 to 30 cents. The opening sale was at 27 cents. O'Neely had the selling end, while the buying was general. Davis Daly eased off close to 7. First National and Rhode Island Coal were both active and firm.

What gives observers the greatest confidence in the market, is knowledge of the character of the selling. They realized that persons are selling who are able to turn immediately and support the issue the minute it is whipped into some semblance of buoyancy. A quick recovery is expected from any temporary depression that may follow from excited transactions.

Some new versions of old stories are heard. One is in connection with Harriman's segregation plan. It is also reported that the Standard Oil people plan to organize the New York Light & Power Company to purchase Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas and the subject companies of Manhattan, this new company to declare dividends in proportion to the present earnings. Consolidated Gas as a holding company concern would go ahead paying its little 4 per cent, preferring quiet until some adjustment should be made of the 80-cent gas affair. A more likely explanation of the advance in Gas is that the corporation tax will disclose its true earnings.

It is asserted that the Union Pacific management has under consideration a scheme by which the stockholders will be given additional shares representing the company's investment in other companies. The supposed proposition will call for an issue of bonds in the form of "certificates of beneficial certificate of participation" in the dividends received by the Union Pacific treasury in the form of dividends. These certificates are described as bearing a resemblance to the great Northern Ore Trust shares. The ownership of the stocks will still be in the Union Pacific railroad, the certificates to shareholders being issued simply against the income derived therefrom; that is, the income from the railroad operations will go to holders of Union Pacific Railroad Company's stock, while that derived from investments will be paid on the beneficial certificate, the preferred participating equally with the common.

More authoritative was the statement that the securities purchased by the United Pacific in the Fall of 1908, the road's treasury bonds, various other securities which are to be included in any general account of its available assets. So far as can be deduced from the last annual report and subsequent changes made public, the investment stocks and bonds of other companies owned by Union Pacific have a combined market value of about $216,000,000.

This estimate does not include unencumbered securities of the Oregon S. L., Oregon R. & N., or proprietary companies, amounting on June 30, 1909, to $111,250,000. Union Pacific could not dispose of these without incurring an offsetting liability in the form of outstanding stocks and bonds unless willing to part with control of the companies, now integral parts of the system, against which they were issued.

As the result of the sale of its $57,500,000 N. P. securities, $10,000,000 Atchison preferred, and the remaining of its fifth stock, Union Pacific now received approximately $60,000,000, part of which has been reinvested in N. Y. Central stock. Assuming that the remainder will be devoted to similar reinvestment, the above estimated value of Union Pacific's free holdings is increased to $270,000,000.

One peculiar incident is the sharp advance in New York Central. The manipulators are keeping in close touch with public sentiment in the street, and small talk seemed to emit New York Central from the Harriman combination. Just to remind the public that they ought to have greater faith in the leaders. New York Central was made active long enough to put it to a new high record. Ownership of Pennsylvania is an impressive feature. The Pennsylvania will soon convert $200,000,000 of deed investment into a live earner, and this cannot help but attract stockholders. The stock is far behind the rest of the market on merit, and if negotiative issues are to do anything at all the leaders will be forced to put Pennsylvania up to its proper place.

What is likely to be a factor of increasing importance in the stock market is the renewed activity in railroad development now displayed most largely in the ordering of large supplies of rails and equipment, but which will before long become even more marked in the letting of contracts for changes of grade and alignment, the building of branches, extension of yards and improvements of other kinds. The Pennsylvania only a few days ago placed a very large order for new cars, and now comes the Baltimore & Ohio with orders aggregating about $10,000,000 in value, and including freight and passenger cars, enough to equip a good-sized railroad, besides a heavy tonnage of rails, both open hearth and Bessemer. The Chicago & Northwestern, besides building a large passenger station in Chicago, is said to contemplate other important terminal improvements in that city and reports from Far West say the lines entering Kansas City have reached a final agreement for a union station at that point involving an outlay of something like $20,000,000. Many other big undertakings are in contemplation, and in a little while the roads will be spending money on the stupendous scale predicted by James J. Hill a few years ago.

UNION PACIFIC HIGHEST EVER

By T. C. SHOTWELL,

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Friday, the 13th, opened in Wall street with two high records in the leading stocks. The first few minutes of trading were irregular. London brokers tried to break the market, but Wall street Lilliputians added their own blows to the onslaught. After a few minutes of uncertainty the New York people took hold of the market and hoisted Union Pacific to 210½, the highest price in the history of the company. This was an advance of 3 points over the early figure of the day. The preferred stock of Union Pacific rose to a record price of 116.

New York Central, which will soon be a member of the Union Pacific family, was put to the record figure of 144, National Lead advanced to a new record price, selling at 75¾.

A new star appeared in the Wall Street firmament. The Rubber Trust came bounding into the front line and created great excitement on the curb, where it rose from a figure of 53¾. This stock has been neglected and for years has been unfairly under its true value.

On the curb Nevada Consolidated, Lazard and Ray Consolidated were the strong features.

WINAKA AND ALTRO L. MEET IN FAST RACE

Ten races have been scheduled for next Saturday at the South Weymouth fair grounds by the Old Colony Driving Club, and the feature event Winaka and Altro L. will once more combat for the honors, but in this instance the race committee have added in the class the trotting gelding Ira Parlin and pacer Nina R., making it a four-cornered affair. Another interesting race must result between Louise D., Rex, Ethel and William L., all pacers of merit. Miss Parlin, the aged trotter, is down to meet Aquiline and Roy K.

COST OF LIVING HAS PRACTICALLY DOUBLED

The fact that it costs more to live from year to year is the harassing economy which confronts every family of this city and country. Every housekeeper knows that it takes $2 to meet the needs that $1 easily supplied some years ago. And those who have not had the extra dollar have been forced to put up with a smaller loaf of bread, a poorer quality of tea or less of it, and have been obliged to pay more for meat.

The story of the rapid and ruinous advance in the cost of living is a story of tears and heartaches and sorrows and suffering, of pinched faces and little children because of hunger, and no doubt also a story of sacrifice and heroic self-denial in many a home.

Statistics are usually uninteresting, but those dealing with this subject are worthy of attention.

The AMERICAN publishes to-day the table of present commodity prices from Bradstreet's.

It gives the prices of all commodities by the pound on July 1, 1890, along with those of August 1, this year. The showing is somewhat startling.

The total cost of the bottom of each column Bradstreet's designates as index numbers, that is, the totals of the prices per pound for the articles given. It will be seen that the advance in the price of commodities this month over July, 1896, is a trifle more than $2.80, or an increase of 40.1 per cent. A glance at the table shows that this increase is confined almost entirely to the necessities of life. Bread stuffs have more than doubled in price.

How Bread Has Advanced.

This means either that a 5-cent loaf of thirteen years ago has been advanced to 10 cents, or has shrunk to half in size or weight.

It means that the father whose bread bill formerly was 30 cents a day must now pay 60 cents, or face the harrowing thought that his children go hungry by reason of the decrease in the weight of the loaf.

The table shows that the price of live stock has more than doubled since 1896.

This means that a $1 steak for the table now costs $2, and if the extra dollar is not to be had, it means an inferior cut or a substitute, or no meat at all.

The housewife who formerly laid aside $10 or $20 out of her allowance each month for the butcher must double it or see her table less bountifully supplied.

The same story is told in provisions of all kinds. Here the advance has been more than seventy-one cents per pound. Even in fruits, with the California market pouring out its golden stream of oranges, pears, cherries and other healthful fruits of all kinds in competition with local products, the advance is more than five cents per pound.

Boots and shoes are affected by the price of cattle and leather. Here the increase has been 45½ cents to the pound, and this is the first report on footwear of all kinds, either in raising the price of the article or in lowering its quality.

It is strange to find textiles quoted by the pound, but that is the Bradstreet method, and it shows an increase of more than 88½ cents in the period named.

Prices Still Soaring.

Other commodities on the list show comparatively small increases, with the exception of oils, in which the advance is more than 100 per cent. If this increase is chargeable to the Standard Oil monopoly, why cannot the increases all along the line be laid to the door of one or another of the great trusts which seemingly possess the land?

There is a ray of comfort for the poor family man in the whole list is the item of the price of chemicals. Here there has been a decrease of a little more than 4 cents per pound since 1896. However, it is small comfort to a hungry man to know that he can buy his drugs for less money than he could some years ago.

Bradstreet's holds out little hope of improved conditions in the immediate future. The article appearing to-day in the publication calls attention to the fact that the index number for this month, $8.5039, is an increase of one-half of 1 per cent over the July figures. This indicates that prices are still rising, with every indication of a continued upward movement.

The figures for this month are the highest recorded since December 1, 1907, when prices reflected the baneful influence of the economic disturbances of that year.

The figures for this month also show an increase of more than 10 per cent, over June, 1908, showing that the rise has been persistent.

How much higher will prices go? This is the question of great moment just now. How much will it cost to live next year?

A Want Advt. Is Often the Road to Fortune.

How Necessaries Have Been Jumped In Recent Years

This table gives the price per pound of all commodities on July 1, 1896, and the first of the current month. Note the tremendous increase in the price of life's necessities.

The total shows an increase of $2.80 per pound over the prices of 13 years ago, or 49.1 per cent.

CHAMPION COPPER

THE NEW COPPER BABY

Trading in the new copper baby of the curb will commence at to A. M. today, Friday, the 13th. The admission of visitors to see the trading is always free at the Boston Curb, but if the price was $100 a ticket there will not be standing room at the opening of the market today, for everyone wants to see the Champion make its bow. We handled close to 100,000 shares yesterday and had unfilled orders for 52,000 shares at the close of business, which we will endeavor to fill today.

When such experts as Professor Locke of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and J. K. Turner, the well-known western mining engineer, have been over a property and taken samples every 20 feet, in every tunnel, shaft, cross-cut and up-raise, and then corroborate each other in their reports, telling the owners to "go ahead, you have a copper proposition which is not surpassed in North America," the entire mining and investing world must sit up quickly and take notice.

We have been engaged to make a market for this stock by every legitimate means known to the business, and in our endeavors to interest investors in the property and acquaint them with what this company is, we are going to buy $50,000 worth of printers' ink right at the start and keep using it until every one is convinced that Champion Copper Co. is a real champion.

ARTHUR ADAMS' DEATH LOSS TO MOTOR WORLD

By J. C. KERRISON.

Arthur E. Adams, one of the "whitest" men known in the local motor world, is no more. He died at the Boothby Hospital Wednesday night. His going leaves a great vacant space among the men of commerce in the industry loaded the brightest; nor every effort in the past has been to ance the general cause of the industry generally, even at his own personal sacri

Arthur Adams was a whole-souled ow, generous to a degree, particularly ose, one whose fortune was especially ght and whose friends were countless. Although but 29 years of age Arthur ams had already made a name for himself among the motorists of the country, having proven a thorough business man every sense of the word, capable and ambitious. Locally he was known as leader. His work in the past few years s high class in every respect, he having developed during the last two years the business of the Oldsmobile in this territory, and this business head of the Alpin Motor Car Company.

Adams was first gazed automobile owledge in the steamer factory at Tarrytown, where he served his apprenticeship. Arthur Walker Adams, as Tarrytown he came to Boston and since then has held responsible positions with the Pope, Columbia, and several other firms, the last position of importance with the Monquin Company. He was a leader among the local men, taking an active interest in the affairs of the Boston Motor Boat Club and being elected president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' association.

He leaves a wife and two children. Funeral services will be held over his remains at 2:30 to-morrow afternoon.

Lowell certainly proposes to have the automobile carnival par excellent, her motorists having already made plans for a gigantic week of sport. President Speidel of the local club returned from New York yesterday, bringing with him assurances of the entry of at least forty-e cars for the hig and sweepstake events. Yesterday the local committee held a conferences and completed further arrangements.

It was announced that the entry list includes five Knoxes, one Buick, four Palmers-Dereuits, three Reos, one Pierce Columbia, two Hernshoff cars, one Hudson Super, one Hatfield, one Hudson, one Isotta Fraschini, one American Simplex, as well as many others. It will be seen on the course during the three days. In addition to this, many of these be credited with one entry, will enter more than one individual number.

Christy will surely bring his freak car and will be a great rival to Barney Oldfield, who will drive his Benz car.

The course is being put in improved condition, for instance the hair pin turn at the head of the Tyngsboro road has been widened one twelve feet, and given a natural banking, while the sharp dirt ditch on the back stretch has not only been widened non four to ten feet but has been greatly straightened out so that instead of having a reduced danger can be attained thereon by the drivers. The course as a whole in excellent condition and there is no question but what the speed records of the year ago will be materially lowered.

Camps have been established at various points along the course and training will start Monday morning.

RACQUET CRACKS HERE.

George James and Maurice McLaughlin, the Pacific coast tennis champions, who will play Alexander and Hackett in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor, Newport, nobles at Newport next week, are in Boston, where they are the guests of the Longwood sanitarium H. C. Johnson and Beals C. Wright, who will probably enable the match from work, for they have not played together, since the Westerners the best part of practice.

NEW DRAMA TELLS STORY OF COREYS?

According to Miss Minnie Radcliffe, many critics notice a similarity between "The Final Settlement" and the life-story of William Ellis Corey and Mrs. Minnie Gilmore Madden Corey.

Miss Minnie Radcliffe, who takes the role of the faithful wife in "The Final Settlement," says:

"Many who have seen this new drama have read into the lines the life-story of Mrs. Corey and Maude Gilmore, but while this was or was not the intention of Clay M. Greene, the author, it is a fact that the coincidence of the two stories is remarkable. Just as Maude Gilmore and the Mousse is credited with being the story of the millionaire and Corey in "The Final Settlement" is taken as the story of William Ellis Corey. Just as Maude Gilmore says she's gone.

"In "The Final Settlement" the young gentleman is there to be prevented from his self corporation. There are his mother and his friends in the social world. To do this he divorces his faithful first wife and marries a beautiful actress, thinking her talent and social graces will open to him doors of which he dreams. The final settlement between love, ambition, wealth and sentiment forms a startling denouement. It is from this climax that Mr. Greene gets his name.

Miss Radcliffe, who discusses these phases of "The Final Settlement," may be seen at the Grand Opera House Monday, when the first local production of this new drama will be given.

Moving Pictures of History No. 2

Write the Editorial Yourself as You Look at the Pictures

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

Here are two more of our "Moving Pictures of History," intended to show how men progress, AND HOW FAR THEY MAY HOPE STILL TO GO.

You see here two pictures of lightning and its power in the history of the human race.

First, the lightning's flash terrifies the ignorant savage. He crouches in dread, he sees a mysterious god in the lightning. He begs for mercy, and promises to the savage god, created by his savage brain and ignorant fear, all kinds of savage rewards for safety.

The savage promises that he will kill an ox and give its blood to the god of lightning if the lightning doesn't hit him.

He will even kill a human being, or a dozen of them, and offer up their blood to please the god of hatred and wrath if his own miserable life can be spared.

History moves, and the next picture shows you Thomas A. Edison to-day and the lightning as man's intellect sees it to-day.

Edison doesn't bang his head on the earth in adoration of the lightning. He doesn't fear it, or make promises to lightning's god. He says: "That is a pretty good kind of lightning, brighter than kerosene oil or candles. I'll use it for lamps to read my books. I'll use it for the phonograph to write my words. I'll use it for power to run my machinery."

There is progress, proof that man is going upward. Between the cringing savage brute, bowing before the lightning and the thunder, and the scientist Edison recognizing a beneficent creation and man's power over the earth, there is a wide and wonderful step.

Wider and more wonderful will be the numerous other steps from the Edison of to-day to the finished human being of the great future.

Mr. Morgan Tips the King

It is said that our Mr. Morgan—in the casual sidelong way of modern financial overlords—has bestowed a feudal province on King Edward.

Visiting that poor prince recently, Mr. Morgan had compassion on his indigence, and passed to him the gracious word that "Steel common" was going up.

Mr. Morgan knew, because Mr. Morgan is, as one might say, the nourishing mother of Steel common—and it gets up or goes to bed—as it pleases him.

And because the King was poor and not too pround—being only a King of court and cabinet—he hied him straight to his broker and wired for his place in Mr. Morgan's empire.

Thus, when Steel common did go up—as go up it surely did—the King went with it.

And now Edward of England and India is something solid.

He is an American millionaire!

But why should our Magnifico lay his golden accolade upon this foreign princeling?

What has Edward done for Pittsburg—what CAN he do that he should take our money?

MAKING EXCUSES

Written for the American

By DR. C. H. PARKHURST

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

It is the frequent habit of people to apologize for the crudities and infirmities of their life by claiming to be the victims of circumstances. The doctrine of the determining influence of environment is being industriously worked as a convenient moral scapegoat, and is availed of by those who are ethically or mentally phlegmatic as excuse for yielding to their own listlessness and for encouraging themselves in pursuing a course of peculiary, intellectual or moral mediocrity.

In hardly any other matter do people universally show themselves to be such adepts as in that of finding shoulders upon which to lay the burden of their own remissness or unsuccess.

Destiny, Adam and Eve, the devil, heredity and environment are variously utilized to this important end, and when each of these five is charged with half the responsibility for one's sins, meanesses and failures, one almost feels not ogly that his shortcomings are covered, but that there is a balance of virtue left over to his credit.

There is less belief at present in a personal devil than was formerly the case, so that he is less commonly than once, cited in explanation of human delinquencies.

People Prefer to Find Reasons.

Adam and Eve, too, have with many floated away into the dim perspective of theological uncertainty, and we are not quite as sure as some of our ancestors seem to have been that a full account of the frailties and blemishes that distinguish us now is to be found in what transpired in the Garden of Eden.

Destiny, what ever that may mean, is only rarely turned to account in our existing dilemma, and there remains only the twin explanation of heredity and environement.

People of to-day are more philosophical than theological, and prefer to find the reason for things at a level of the ground, and in the present rather than to go searching for them in the clouds or in the world's first centuries; for we love to understand things, provided it is going to cost us only a minimum of effort.

Of the five explanations mentioned it is to environment that the majority of us are disposed to look for our justification, and to say that had circumstances been different with us we should have been better and could have done better. This is a way of looking at things that be culated to keep people bad and ineff and to make them more so. It is a ardly surrender to the influences tha at work about us, without stopping t quire in what direction it is that we going to drift if we let those influ have their way with us.

Its result, then, is to make an idle moron lazy, an ignorant man more fo and a bad man more depraved, for is scarcely a force operating in the w but that works mischief if idly sul ted to.

Neither things nor men ever drop u To consent to the governance of cir stances is also to deny our own pers power and efficiency. It is to make selves the slave of circumstance, re than to act in the light and the conse ness of such superiority lodged in ourse as fits us to get the better of circumsta It is to deny our birthright. It is a of stating that we are willing to be plaything of our surroundings and the of our own native dispositions, rather w to be masters of ourselves and of wha about us.

For a man to say that he is the victi of circumstances is to confess that he chip on the wave, rather than the wav self that floats the chips.

All the progress that has ever been m in the world has been made by the and women who, instead of being afrai obstacles and running away from t have climbed up on to them and used t as means of ascent, and, like the oak be the wind, have woven the blast into fabric of their own character and activit

Real Betterment by People Themselves

Most of the difficulty that is encounte in attempts to improve the world's co tion comes from the fact that people are trying to work up-stream have to pend half their strength in dragging floaters after them.

The prevalence of this doctrine explo the fact that humanitarian efforts dev themselves to so large an extent to try to improve the conditions under which p ple live, instead of limiting themsel more closely to an improvement of people themselves.

The basis of all genuine helpfulness self-helpfulness. The brooding bird c cover warmly its nest, but each chick have to peck its own way out of the sh Impulse is not transferable. No co try and no man can grow rich on impor tions. Loans can not be counted in swell one's assets.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

SAYS ELIOT IS RIGHT

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dr. Eliot is right when he proclaims for a religion of prevention, a religion of example, and not one of preaching. For do we not see in our churches ministers with eyes lifted to heaven imploring the Almighty to relieve the suffering and want, while not one finger is raised to help or prevent the cause of this misery.

Do we not see beautiful buildings of marble and granite with spires and domes and filled with chiming bells, costly organs, cushioned seats and hand-carved mahogany doors, while not one penny is given to build suitable tenements for the poor to live in. Little children, whose little bare feet know only the hot brick pavements, find their only playground is dark smelling backyards, enclosed with high board fences.

While millions are sent away to foreign countries to convert the heathen, no one pends to help those at home.

There are parts of East Cambridge and the North and West Ends of Boston that are worse in regard to the bringing up of children than some heathen countries that the churches so willingly send their money into. Give us more of example and less of preaching. RICHARD FAIRFIELD.
